Article 10: Initial step toward new high school

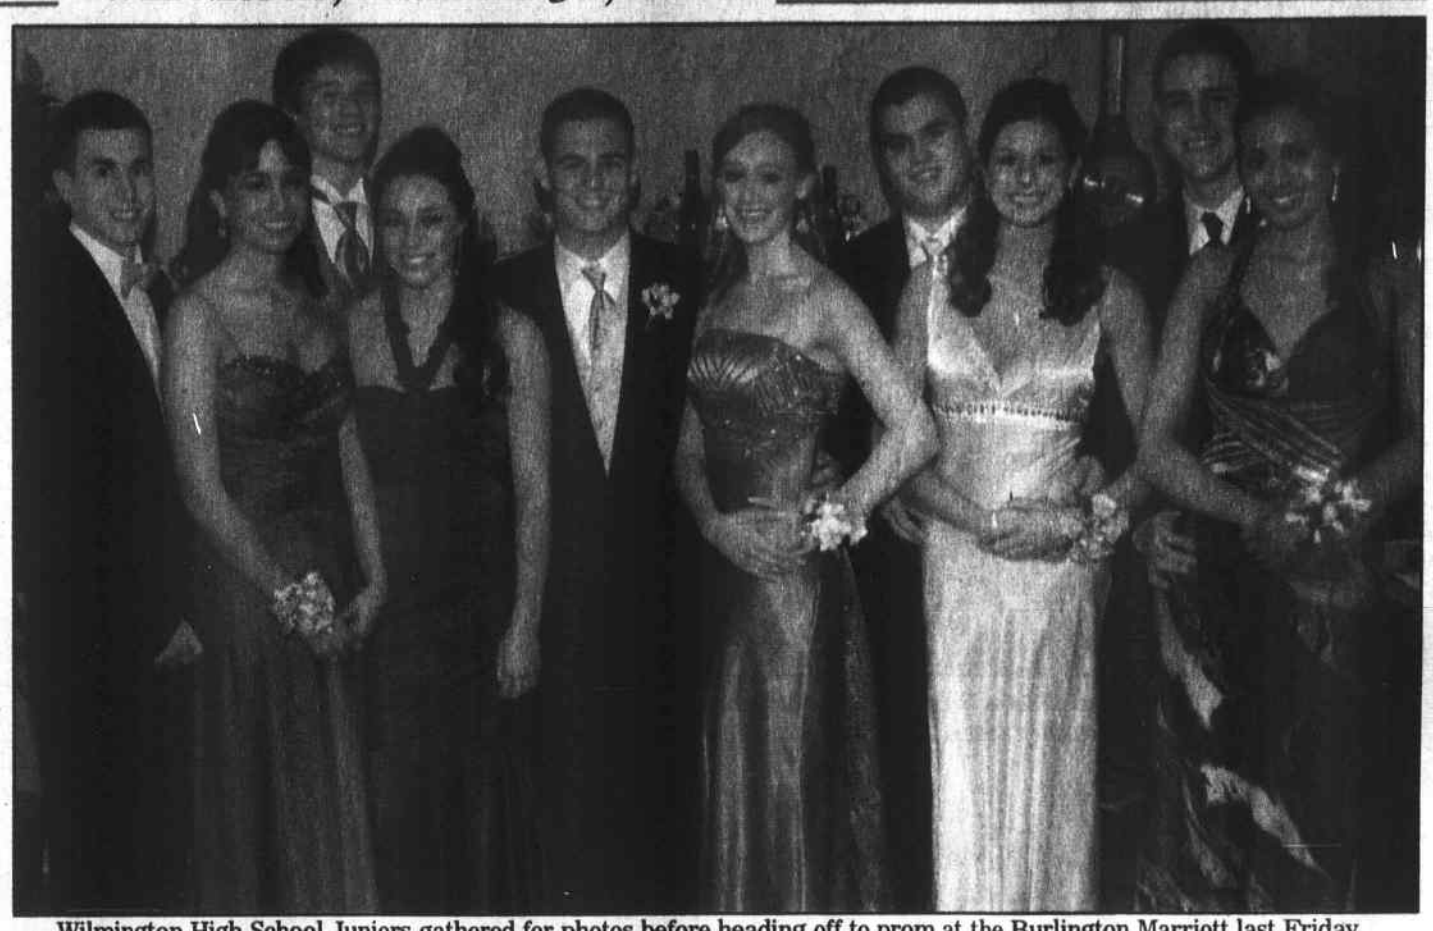

Town Meeting to decide future of WHS

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON – The itch to get moving on plans to renovate or build a new Wilmington High School got stronger recently after Tewksbury passed a new high school at a special town meeting and the ballot box. While Tewksbury begins the next stage of its project, with construction slated to begin this summer, Wilmington prepares to enter the second phase when, and if, Town Meeting passes Article 10 to begin a feasibility study.

"It's an exciting time to be going through this process, and with so much financial support from the state building authority we don't want to jeopardize what is available

Environmental Leadership

Wilmington's Analog Devices honored for commitment to the environmental

By KAREN ANGELO

WILMINGTON - Representatives of the Toxics Use Reduction Act (TURA) Program, state legislators and town officials presented Analog Devices, Inc. (ADI) with an award on Friday, March 26, to acknowledge the company's environmental leadership at its wafer fabrication facility on Woburn Street in Wilmington.

Analog Devices, headquartered in Norwood, Mass., is one of only 17 companies across Massachusetts being honored this year by the TURA Program as a "TURA 20th Anniversary Leader." The awards and facility tours are intended to showcase environmental accomplishments - use of safer materials, water conservation and energy savings - since the Toxics Use Reduction Act was enacted into law by the Massachusetts legislature in 1989.

"We selected Analog Devices for the company's steadfast determination to continually improve performance, from reducing toxics and solid waste to improving efficiencies in water and energy use," said Liz Harriman, deputy director of the Toxics Use Reduction Institute at UMass Lowell.

Since 1990, Analog Devices has made significant reductions in chemical use while doubling production at its fabrication plant site in Wilmington, where more than 1,800 people work. By evaluating safer options and processes, the company has managed to either eliminate or significantly reduce hazardous chemicals used in manufacturing. By treating and reusing water for scrubbers and cooling towers, ADI has reduced municipal water use for industrial facilities equip-

Meet the candidates

Selectmen race

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON – Two incumbents and two newcomers vie for two seats on the Board of Selectmen at the town election next month. The two incumbents, current Chairman Michael Newhouse and Veteran's Agent Louis Cimaglia, face challengers Mark Nelson and Daniel Murphy.

Newhouse, an attorney with a practice in town, began his service as a Selectman in 1996, when he was elected to his first of four terms. Elected again in 1999, Newhouse vacated the seat before the end of the term to accept the position of Town Counsel. He served as Town Counsel from June 2001 to June 2003. He was elected to the Board again in 2004 and has served since.

Cimaglia, Wilmington's Veteran's Agent, is now running for his second term.

For both, returning to the board is an extension of their volunteer work within the community.

"I've enjoyed my first three years," said Cimaglia. "It's been an enlightening experience. I want to keep moving forward. I want to keep moving forward."

Mark Nelson has run for selectman four other times in 1997, 1998, 1999, and 2000. Nelson graduated from Wilmington High School in the early 1970s and his daughter attended Wilmington Public Schools until grade ten. Self-employed in the construction field, Nelson served on the Master Plan committee. He told the Crier in a

Transforming the classroom

Rotary donation funds technology investment

By JAYNE W. MILLER

WILMINGTON - Ask most kids what they do for fun and one usually hears about favorite video game systems, iPods, and other electronic entertainment. Today's children are wired for technology, seeming to inherently grasp how to operate an application or device that a parent or grandparent might need a night class to master.

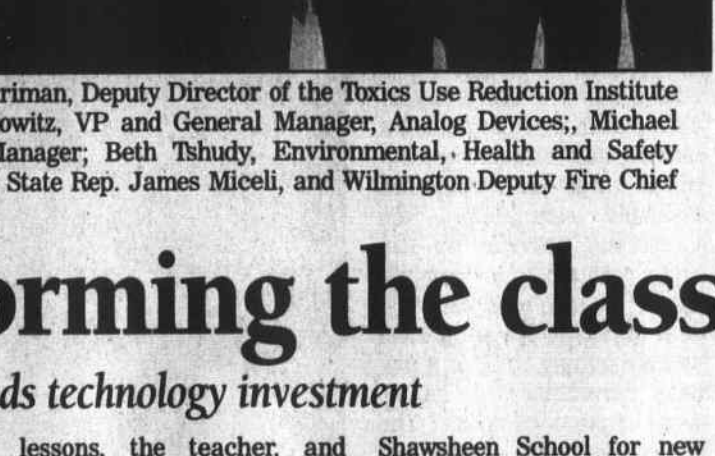

Enter interactive white boards. This new classroom technology marries an overhead projector with a computer and a whiteboard. Students respond enthusiastically to the boards - and the new way to interact with lessons, the teacher, and classmates - because it is working at their speed. The Wilmington Rotary club understands the pull of the technology and recently donated $2,800 to the Shawsheen School for new technology.

"Wilmington Rotary continues to support the Wilmington Public Schools through their generous donations every year," said Superintendent Joanne Benton.

Imagine a class on the French Revolution. An interactive white board helps the teacher make the subject come alive by allowing her to call up internet resources showing museum images, speeches, and relics from that period. When a teacher wants to know if his students fully understand the material in math class, a set of data responders, which look like television remotes, let kids answer questions and aggregates the results in a graph on the board, in seconds. The teacher can later look at a spreadsheet that will tell which students truly understand the lesson and which need additional help.

"I have seen classrooms become transformed. There is a wealth of materials and media available for students at the fingertips of the teacher via this technology. Anything you can find online can become a piece of a lesson plan such as virtual field trips, museum archives and articles even live interviews with authors," said Neal Ellis,

Principal Ferriero arrested?

Not exactly – all in fun for a learning experience

By JOANIE WALSH

WILMINGTON - The boys of the North Intermediate School were treated to a wonderful evening earlier this month when community agencies and parents pulled together to plan "CSI at NIS."

North Intermediate School Principal Frank Ferriero (a.k.a. The cookie Culprit)

A fun, educational night introducing the boys to the world of Crime Scene Investigation that began with a mystery to be solved - and ended with the arrest of Mr. Ferriero!

"CSI at NSI" was an event spearheaded by the North Intermediate PAC. The theme was developed based on the popular TV show CSI (Crime Scene Investigation). "We wanted to give the boys something that would be fun and interactive," said PAC Chair Susan Woods. "This could not have gone better!"

As the committee began to work on the evening events it became clear that the talents of the committee and the community would be put to good use. Colleen Robinson - researcher by day, mom and avid "forensics" enthusiast by night - organized all of the hands-on activities. Each of the boys received their own kit and had the opportunity to "dust for fingerprints," discover "blood types" and run chromatography tests. The tests were used to help the boys solve the mystery "The Case of The Missing Cookies"

Principal Ferriero arrested?

- a play written and performed at the beginning of the night by The Children's Theatre Workshop of Wilmington. In the play, the boys learned that the cookies for Boys Night were stolen and the suspects included the lunch lady, some kids and of course Mr. Ferreiro! The talents of Middle School actors; Jeremy Frost, Nicole Tetreault, Alex LeBlanc, Michelle Murray and Daniel Tetreault were put to good use as they set the stage for the evening's events. Each boy also received a "mug shot" taken in front of the "prison wall" by photographers (and moms) Laurie Bailey and Jen Ahlin.

Even with all of these wonderful activities, no CSI night would be complete without some police activity. If the PAC committee had any concerns about getting the police involved, Cambridge Detective (and 4th grade Dad) John Fulkerson put their worries to rest by organizing a massive display of police presence. The Middlesex County Sheriff's Department, Cambridge Police Department and State Police collaborated to provide two bus-sized vehicles, including a "portable crime scene lab" and "bomb squad truck" for the boys to tour, a demonstration by a bomb squad robot, two fingerprinting scanners allowing each boy to get their fingerprints done, local and state police on hand in uniform with lights flashing and plenty of crime scene tape to set the mood.

"This is great," said Fulkerson. "We like doing stuff like this so that kids realize that we are here to help them and they don't have to be afraid of us."

Fulkerson also displayed his fine acting skills as he participated in the closing skit with the climactic arrest of Ferriero as the cookie culprit! Not to be outdone, Ferriero also proved to be a talented actor and a very good sport during the evening's events - participating in the opening skit, being arrested in front of 100 cheering boys, and returning in an orange prison suit to pull the raffles as the boys snacked on the dozens of baked goods provided by parent volunteers.

"I love it," Ferriero said "It was by far one of the best boys nights we've ever had. It was social and educational and involved the entire community."

This year's "Boys Night" was not only a good night for the boys but also a great lesson in collaboration. Parents, teachers, students, community organizations and police all working together, learning and appreciating each others skills and talents to bring a successful, educational and fun event to the kids of Wilmington. Congratulations to all who were involved.

A Town Crier tribute

Remembering George Webster and Conrad Gerhartz

By LARZ F. NEILSON

WILMINGTON - Two longtime residents of North Wilmington died last week, just hours apart, on opposite sides of the street. George Webster and Conrad Gerhartz both contributed a lot to the town.

George Webster worked for a Boston printer, the type of printing firm that no longer exists. They did high-quality work, such as insurance company annual reports, usually with a color reproduction of company artwork on the cover. Corporations still have fancy reports printed, but they are no longer done in Boston. Boston has lost its old-time financial industry and computers have completely changed the printing industry.

Printing is a hectic business and in defense of his sanity, George developed a great sense of humor. He would write hilarious letters to the editor of the Town Crier, usually on local topics. Once, after the Town Crier had published the 29th chapter of a series on Mrs. Dr. Frances Hiller, he submitted a letter that reported that Dr. Hiller, up in Heaven, was requesting that the long, boring series please be ended. It was signed with a blue thumbprint, from GOD, George Webster, acting secretary.

George worked for the Town Crier for a couple of years, selling advertising. He was a good worker and was never without a joke. He was a man of many talents, a fine water-color artist and an exceptional photographer.

His neighbor across the street, Conrad Gerhartz, was also a letter-writer. His letters usually concerned water quality and could be quite lengthy. At first, they were submitted in small handwriting, a nightmare for a typesetter with bifocals. So the Town Crier insisted that the letters be typed, and limited to one page, one side. The next letter was indeed typed, but it was photo-reduced and typed in a manner that completely filled the page with small print.

Sometimes his letters would not be printed. It wasn't that they were wrong, but they were long. There simply was not room in the paper, unless we were to omit a significant amount of other material.

Connie noticed that George never had a problem having a letter published. So he wrote a long letter and took it to George, asking that he edit it. George complied and returned the letter to Connie, who then submitted the long original to the Town Crier, with none of George's changes. It didn't run, and when Connie complained, he said that he'd had George edit it.

Connie was very sincere in his efforts to protect Wilmington's water supply, and his campaign was prophetic. Eventually, many of the wells became contaminated and the town had to tie into the metropolitan Boston (MWRA) water system.

PFC. Scott Dunnett receives Coin of Excellence

FORT EUSTIS, VA - Army Reserve PFC. Scott Dunnett has received a military Coin of Excellence. He was awarded the coin by his 8th Transportation Brigade Sgt. Major and his Commanding Colonel for going above and beyond all expectations.

Scott Dunnett is the son of Lorens and Sharon Dunnett of Broad Street in Wilmington.

Dunnett graduated from Wilmington High School in 2006 and received his Associates Degree in Criminal Justice from Hesser College in Salem, NH.

Barcellos on Dean's List at Green Mountain College

Kati Barcellos, a 2008 graduate of Wilmington High School, made the Dean's List for the fall semester at Green Mountain College in Poultney, VT. Kati is a Communications/Journalism major, and just returned from a weeklong tour of Wales with the GMC Choir group.

Green Mountain College was recently honored as one of the top 371 schools in the nation, according to the 2010 Princeton Review. GMC is part of "The Eco League," a group of five schools located around the country which make up the only college consortium in the United States dedicated to environmental learning and the active pursuit of environmental studies.

No joke! Book Store Next Door is now open Wednesdays

WILMINGTON - It's no joke! The Book Store Next Door, 183 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, is now open on Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., in addition to Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

You'd be a fool not to visit the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library's used bookstore this week. Saturday is the final day of our Sci-Fi and Fantasy "Buy One, Get One Free" sale. Also, if you know a little one who is a fan of Tigger, Piglet, or the big yellow bear himself, check out the Winnie the Pooh display in the Children's Room.

Conveniently located next to the Wilmington Memorial Library, the joke is on you if you haven't discovered the Book Store Next Door.

You'll find a good book. No joke! The store has more than 5,000 titles to choose from, with hundreds added weekly. In addition to the Fiction Room, Non-Fiction Room, and Children's Room, the store now features a Media Room, filled with Books-on-CD, Books-on-Tape, CD's, computer games, DVD's, and videos.

You'll help a good cause. No joke! Every penny raised at the store benefits the Wilmington Memorial Library. The store, run entirely by volunteers, is the Friends of the Wilmington Memorial Library's number one fundraiser.

You'll get a good deal. No joke! All books for adults are priced $2 or less: 50 cents for mass market paperbacks, $1 for trade paperbacks, and $2 for hardcovers. All books for children are priced $1 or less: 50 cents for paperbacks and $1 for hardcovers.

You'll find a great place to recycle your gently used books. No joke! Donations may be dropped off when the store is open. Cashiers can give customers a receipt confirming the number of books donated. Customers must calculate the value of their donations for a tax deduction.

Please contact Manager Robert Hayes at folwilmington@yahoo.com or 978-604-8933 for volunteer inquiries, donation pick-ups, and further information.

Hanson named to Dean's List

WEST HAVEN, CT - Bethany Hanson of Wilmington was named to the Dean's List at the University of New Haven for the fall 2009 semester. Full-time undergraduate students must have a 3.50 or better cumulative GPA for the semester to be eligible for the Dean's List.

A leader in experiential education, the University of New Haven is experiencing a historic and nationally recognized surge in enrollment. Founded in 1920, the University provides its students with a unique combination of solid liberal arts and real-world, hands-on professional training. UNH is a private university with an 80-acre main campus. The University has an enrollment of more than 5,200; approximately 1,700 graduate students and more than 3,500 undergraduates, 70 percent of whom reside in University housing. The University offers more than 80 undergraduate degrees and more than 25 graduate degrees through its five colleges, in fields such as sports management, nutrition, forensic science, music and sound recording, engineering, computer science and criminal justice. University College at UNH develops programs and courses to meet the emerging educational and training needs of educators, businesses and public and social agencies, focusing on academic excellence, convenience and flexibility. University of New Haven students study abroad through a variety of distinctive programs.

It's Your Money
by Joyce Brisbois

TAX-WISE WAYS TO TAP RETIREMENT CASH

Your retirement accounts are pretty will tied up, but you need money NOW! What's the best way to access those funds, ideally without triggering income tax and penalties?

If you're still working, and the plan allows it, you can borrow up to half the balance from your 401(k). Interest rates are usually lower than elsewhere, and the loan payments and interest go back into your account. But you must pay the loan back on time, or it will be treated as an early distribution with taxes and penalty.

If you lose your job or retire at 55, you can tap a 401(k) plan penalty-free (paying taxes), but you lose that early-out option if you roll it over to an IRA. Or avoid a penalty by using IRA funds for college or certain other special expenses. Or take "substantially equal periodic payments" for five years or until you are 59 1/2.

A Roth IRA is easiest to tap tax- and penalty-free - but don't. Let those tax-free funds grow as long as possible.

What a trip!

Dear Editor,

The Wilmington Recreation Department's ten-day tour of Italy just ended on Friday, March 26. It was the first time my wife and I had been on one of their tours and believe me it was fantastic.

Italy is a beautiful country and we were shown some of the most unique and gorgeous sites in the world. We toured at least 16 cities from Venice in the north all the way to Sorrento in the south. We stopped for three days in Rome, went to the Isle of Capri, and saw Mount Vesuvius, among many other places.

At all stops we were escorted by very knowledgeable and entertaining tour guides. It really was a great time due especially to the efforts of the Rec. Dept.'s Debbie Cipriani. She did a super job of keeping things running smoothly and taking care of the little "bumps in the road." She was always there when anyone needed help. Thanks, Debbie.

Maple Fest!

Dear Editor,

On Sunday, March 28, the Wilmington Town Museum at the Col. Joshua Harnden Tavern hosted a second annual Maple Fest, a free program for local families to learn about the process of making maple syrup and how it ties into the history of our area. The program was a great success, with over 50 families attending.

I would like to thank the Murray family; particularly Jim, Joyce and Anita Murray, for making this program possible, with help from the Friends of Breakheart Reservation.

The Murrays put on a program that entertained and educated and created an event enjoyed by all. I would also like to thank Steve Berghaus for giving tours of the tool and flag exhibit in the Carriage House, as well as Kelly Dankese and Vicky McDermott for helping with refreshments.

Lastly - thank you to the citizens of Wilmington for your continuing support!

Apology accepted, but...

Dear Editor

I am compelled to respond to two letters in last week's letters to the Editor, 1, Allegedly Setting the record straight and 2. No political spin, please.

I have known Mr. Craig Newhouse and his family for 'over 40 years and especially have the utmost respect for Craig, his father Dave and his brother David as I have been in the construction business and played various sports with both. I realize that you did not generate the headline that accompanied your letter and I do not believe that was the point of your correspondence. However, I am confident that if you became aware of an article petitioned for Town Meeting and submitted to the Town Clerk that involved a property that was either owned by you or someone in your family, you would not sit idle and let the matter go without a response. If I had made a similar honest mistake, the first person I would have contacted would be the property owner of the petitioned article and explained the error and apologized. I believe your error was realized on or about February 1, 2010, my family did not become aware of the Article until watching the Selectman's meeting and quite frankly did not find it as amusing as the Town Manager and Chairman of the Board laughed and joked it off. My family and I accept your apology as stated in your letter to the editor, but maybe direct contact with a family member may have resolved all concerns much earlier and with a different format.

Regards,
Mark Nelson

A vote for Polimeno

Dear Editor:

We are very excited that Krissy Polimeno is running for School Committee. Over the past three years, our sons have participated on the same youth baseball team. When we first met Krissy at her son's t-ball practice, we were impressed with her commitment and passion for her family and her three children. Over the years, we have seen that she shares that same commitment and passion for all the children in town. She has demonstrated this commitment in her community activities as Tewksbury Youth Softball and Basketball coach and as a member of various town-wide committees.

Right now, Tewksbury schools face critical challenges: financial challenges that threaten the quality of education for our children. These challenges force our School Committee to make difficult decisions – decisions that are not always popular with parents, teachers or çommunity members. A strong School Committee member is someone who is willing to make those difficult decisions with courage and commitment, while keeping our children's best interest in the forefront. Not many people are willing to take on the responsibility of a School Committee member during these challenging times. Not many people have the courage, leadership and perseverance to tackle the tough issues facing our educational system. Krissy is someone who is willing and able to make those tough decisions. More importantly, we trust Krissy to make those decisions in the best interest of our children, regardless of their popularity,

We want Krissy's courage, tenacity and positive attitude on the School Committee to chart the direction of our educational system for the coming years. We fully support Krissy's candidacy for Tewksbury School Committee.

Sincerely,
Tom and Karla Branchaud
Tewksbury

A vote for Puccia

Dear Editor,

With the decision to support construction of a new high school, our community recently made a clear statement regarding the importance of education in our town. On April 10th, the citizens of Tewksbury will once again be called upon to make a critical decision about the future direction of our educational system. Our task will be to decide who we can trust to make sound, unbiased decisions that place the best interest of our children first and foremost.

The first of my two votes for School Committee will be going to Lisa Puccia.

Although I had crossed paths with Lisa many times over the last five years, it was not until I became involved with the Special Education PAC, and later the Budget Advisory Committee, that I truly learned what a tremendous asset Lisa is to our community. Even more impressive than the list of her accomplishments is the way in which she goes about her business. Lisa puts in the time and effort necessary to understand the issues. She's a creative thinker who is not easily intimidated by the amount of effort something may take to accomplish. Lisa's not afraid to listen to other points of view, nor to speak up when the situation calls for it.

Year after year our school system faces financial crises and budget constraints. Though Lisa may not be able to solve them all on her own, you can rest assured that she will thoughtfully consider her decisions and the impact they have on both our children and the larger community.

As a parent of three children and a strong advocate of education, I have great concern over where are schools are now and where they are headed. I know Lisa will work hard for long term solutions, not just quick fixes.

Please join my family and me on April 10th and cast a vote for Lisa Puccia.

Regards,
Robert B. Mills

A vote for Russell

Dear Editor,

I had the pleasure and honor of meeting Joe Russell back in September of 1994 when his oldest daughter entered kindergarten at the Dewing School. I was immediately struck by the fact that he was one of few fathers that totally immersed himself in the PAC and was willing to volunteer for any activity that benefited the schools or the community as a whole. Joe continued with his commitment and became heavily involved with the state mandated Dewing School Council as one of the original members. As it became evident that Joe could make a positive contribution to the community by serving on the school committee, I became committed to helping him achieve that goal. Joe was elected to and served on the Tewksbury School Committee for six years. During that time he was instrumental in achieving many educational advancements: expanding the extended day program, implementing an all day kindergarten program, the renovation and expansion of the Wynn Middle School, expanding technology within the system, adopting a new reading and social studies program, just to mention a few.

As a member of the school committee, Joe served as the Vice-Chair for three years, was a member of the High School Building Committee, served on a number of subcommittees including the Town wide Budget Subcommittee and experienced the negotiation and signing of agreements with respective unions. As a dedicated member of the community and former member of the school committee Joe will bring over 16 years of experience to the table.

On April 10th I will cast my vote for Joe Russell because I know that he is committed to the town of Tewksbury and the education of its children.

Sincerely,
Lee McCarthy

Taking steps to end MS...

You may think of Multiple Sclerosis as a disease or a disability, something to overcome, something hopeless. But to us, it's inspiring. Our mother has been inspiring us our whole lives, but even more so since 2003 when she was diagnosed with Multiple Sclerosis (or MS). She is fighting it, learning from it, and striving to overcome it.

Over 16,000 loved ones have MS in Massachusetts, Vermont and New Hampshire. This devastating disease attacks the central nervous system; symptoms are unpredictable and varied. One person may feel tired, another may seem unusually off balance or clumsy and the next may feel numbness or dizzy. No one knows what causes MS and, even worse, there is no cure.

Our mother, like other MS patients, has an amazing strength and spirit. She shows us what it is like to not give up, to overcome and to endure. That is one reason, among countless others; why we have decided to test our own strength and spirit at the MS Challenge Walk. On September 11th and 12th 2010, we will walk for two days, covering over 30 miles of the Cape showing our dedication to a disease that will one day have a cure.

We will walk with others who watch their family, friends, neighbors and associates struggle with day-to-day tasks after being diagnosed with MS. You can help us by donating to our team, Northshore Warriors. We understand how difficult times are; you work hard for your money, have bills to pay and have to provide for your families. But please know that any donation, no matter how big or small provides hope and strength to our mother, and countless other families. Your donation will go towards research to help understand and prevent MS.

Please visit the "Challenge Walk" section on the National MS Society's Central New England Chapter (http://main.nationalmssociety.org/goto/northshorewarriors) to donate to our team, the Northshore Warriors, inspired by our mother's bravery and strength. You can also mail a check made payable to the National MS Society to 12 Birchwood Road Wilmington, MA 01887. On behalf of our mother and all individuals and families with MS, thank you for your consideration, and taking the time to read this letter!

A vote for Cimaglia

Dear Editor,

In a time when most Cities and Towns throughout the Commonwealth have fought to keep services and jobs from being cut from their budgets, Business Week published last week that Wilmington is one of the "best affordable" places to live, and one should ask, "why is that?"!

Although there are reasons that we all can give, it should be said that the governing factor within our town should be commended and brings me to my point about the upcoming Selectman races.

It is my intention to vote once again for current Selectman, Lou Cimaglia. A devoted individual who strives to do an outstanding job continuously for Wilmington. He takes great pride within the Town and has offered promising suggestions with results that would better enhance and beautify our surroundings. Lou was the selectman that introduced the proposal to have a fixed fee for the Town Counsel, saving Wilmington money by doing so! When expansion or new programs are administered within Wilmington, Lou is always there to lend support and credit. At all times he is at the ready to assume additional duties for the overall benefit of the Town.

There is no doubt that Lou displays strong work ethics and a keen interest in doing the job as our (VSO), Veterans Service Officer. He has worked diligently to provide for the rightful needs and benefits of our Dads and Moms, Sisters and Brothers and your Sons and Daughters, who have served our Country with pride and distinction. On Memorial Day, the Veterans Lot at Wildwood Cemetery will change in appearance as new Crosses and Stars of David, made of stone, will appear above each resting place of our veterans. Lou once again stepped in to help and support such a program.

Lou founded Local Heroes, an organization that meets every Wednesday night at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wilmington. To date this program has sent close to 11,000 care packages to our own Town and Local Community heroes serving in both Iraq and Afghanistan. He is a member of the Fourth of July Committee, which this whole Town should be proud of for the week of activities that many enjoy.

In closing, I ask once again that you support and re-elect Lou Cimaglia for Town Selectman.

A vote for Russell

Dear Editor,

I am proud to support Joe Russell for School Committee and urge you to vote for him on April 10th. I've known Joe for the past 12 years and have seen him work tirelessly on many matters vitally important to improving the education of our children.

In 2005, as a School Committee member, Joe was a leader and driving force of the Long Range School Space Planning Committee which became the High School Building Committee. He's been a determined and dedicated member of both committees since then. Largely because of Joe's vision and compassionate commitment to improving our schools we will be breaking ground on a brand new state of the art High School this fall.

During his tenure on the School Committee Joe has constantly fought to improve our school budget and funding for our children's education. Joe's number one priority is, and has always been, to do everything he can to make sure our kids have the teachers, curriculum and resources necessary to enable them to receive the best education possible.

Please vote for Joe Russell for School Committee on April 10th. He is a proven strong intelligent clear voice for the best education for all our children.

Very truly yours,
Jamey Cutelis

A vote for Puccia

Dear Editor,

Lisa Puccia is a fast talker. It is one of the first things you notice about her when you meet her. For any parent who has sought her advice, the second thing you notice is that she is on your side.

Being a fast talker is a good thing for Lisa, because she has many ideas on how to help improve our district. Having someone who will go to bat for you time and time again is a rare thing in today's world.

Years before she announced her candidacy, Lisa Puccia was well known to the School Committee, working in partnership to improve special education in our district through her leadership of the Special Education PAC and the Special Education Sub-Committee. A regular face at school committee meetings, policy, and budget meetings, Lisa understands the complex issues facing our town today.

With her PAC, Lisa worked diligently to bring more funding and programs into our district, at no cost to taxpayers. Lisa also brought forth athletic opportunities for our special needs population, because she knows the value of athletics for kids of all abilities, again at no cost to the town or parents.

School Committees are the only elected bodies that have a significant constituency that cannot vote: children. The job of a School Committee is largely limited to setting policy and managing the budget and through it all, to be responsive to the needs of the district and to be a responsible steward of public monies. It is not an easy job, nor glamorous, nor given to flights of fancy. It requires tremendous dedication and commitment - of time and heart - to meet our kids' needs.

I have been privileged to know Lisa for many years and I know that Tewksbury needs her energy, enthusiasm, and out-of-the box approach to problem solving. Please join me in voting for Lisa Puccia on Saturday, April 10.

A vote for Polimeno

Dear Editor,

In the past few weeks, Tewksbury has invested in a new Town Manager, School Superintendent and High School. In just a few weeks it will be time to vote again for new board members for our School Committee. I would like to speak about one candidate who I believe is the best choice for one of the available seats on this board, Krissy Polimeno.

Krissy is a wife and mother of three elementary aged children. She is very energetic and motivated and has given her time and support to many events, fundraisers and committees in town. She has been the Chairperson for the Dewing School PAC for the last five years and has spent much time bringing the Dewing community together for family oriented events at the school.

She is focused and driven to accomplish tasks and make decisions, no matter how tough they may be. She willingly accepts any and all challenges and gives 110% of herself each and every time until the task is completed, never seeking recognition for what she has done only looking forward to the next cause to get involved with.

Krissy has a lot of positive energy and it becomes contagious to all of the people around her.

She is a true leader and team player and I have never heard her say that something could not be done. She has always found a way not only to get it done, but to exceed all expectations. Her focus is on the children, all of the children, and what she can do to ensure that each and every one is offered the best education that they can get.

The town just voted to invest in the future of the children. Let's do it again on April 10th with a vote for Krissy Polimeno.

A vote for Puccia

Dear Editor:

My family is supporting Lisa Puccia as a candidate for School Committee. As a member of the School Committee she will be vigilant in finding the best ways and means to keep Tewksbury's education at its finest. Lisa listens, asks questions and gives you her honest opinion. She supports students, teachers, aides, and parents.

According to Lisa, the education of our children comes first. If elected, she will support all levels of education - from special needs to gifted and talented, and all abilities in between.

Lisa and her husband are the parents of four terrific children. They are proud to have their children attend the Tewksbury Public Schools. By electing her to the School Committee you will be able to witness the pride and caring she has for the Tewksbury Public Schools.

Please join our family on April 10, 2010 and vote for Lisa Puccia for School Committee.

A vote for Polimeno

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter to offer concrete reasons to Tewksbury voters why I fully support Krissy Polimeno as candidate for Tewksbury School Committee. I have been a longtime resident of Tewksbury and attended Tewksbury schools from K - 12th grade. I have always felt that Tewksbury provided a solid education, but the population growth and recent economic conditions have put unprecedented strain on the services and facilities. In response, Tewksbury residents recently made a strong commitment to the betterment of our children's education and the future of the town during the recent high school special election. This brings me to why I feel so strongly about Krissy Polimeno and her candidacy. As president of Friends of the New Tewksbury Memorial High School, Krissy provided strong leadership to the committee. She spent countless hours educating the community about the unique opportunity Tewksbury had to build a new high school. One of the goals of the School Committee is to see this new high school project successfully implemented. Krissy remains fully committed to the project and will continue to provide leadership as a School Committee member.

Aside from the impactful new high school opportunity, Krissy had already demonstrated tireless commitment to improving Tewksbury's education through her volunteering and running of the Dewing School PAC. There has not been a day that I have visited the Dewing school that she hasn't been there helping in an oversized 25-plus student classroom or making sure the teachers have the supplies they need. Her passion for the children and the quality education they receive is indisputable. All the teachers and educators at the Dewing school that I have spoken with are passionate about Krissy's candidacy and her ability to enact positive change if given the chance to participate on the Tewksbury School Committee.

Make no mistake, Krissy's only motive for running is for the benefit of our children and the educational opportunities they will be offered in the Tewksbury school system. Her proven leadership in getting the new high school to the voters and her tireless commitment to the schools as a full time volunteer qualify her for this position. Her commitment, resume, and demonstrated capabilities make her a gift to Tewksbury and its future. Vote yes for Krissy Polimeno on April 10th and continue the trend of investing in our great community.

A vote for Puccia

Letter to the Editor:

As a former School Committee member and current Selectman in Tewksbury, I encourage you to support Lisa Puccia as a candidate for one of two available seats on the Tewksbury School Committee. Executing the principles of fiscal responsibility, transparency, and accountability is imperative to the successful interaction of the School Committee with our School Department. Through her years of involvement with sports programs, advocacy, and parent groups, Lisa has demonstrated her awareness of how vital these elements are.

Lisa's approach to challenging financial problems is refreshing. Seeking new sources of funding, pursuing grants, and forging partnerships will go a long way toward breaking down barriers of traditional thinking. In conjunction with the current School Committee's good work, I foresee Mrs. Puccia as a capable contributor, willing to make difficult but fair decisions about the budget once all data has been gathered. She knows we have to live within our means and will do all she can to ensure that happens.

That said, we are fortunate to have a skilled teaching base. Those whose children have graduated from the Tewksbury schools, including my own, have gone on to respectable institutions and are on their way to successful careers. We have a good product, but our packaging needs improvement. My expectation is that Ms. Puccia, as a fresh voice on the School Committee, will be able to continue and enhance the good, tough work that the team is doing to bring our system around and restore its luster.

In support of Polimeno

Dear Editor,

I have known Kristen Polimeno both professionally and personally for over 15 years. During her eight year tenure at MEDITECH, Kristen held a number of positions where she demonstrated substantial business skills, leadership, and superior inter-personal skills. As a result, within a relatively short period of time, Kristen was able to advance from an entry level position within the company to a senior management role reporting directly to the Corporate Counsel.

As indicated above, Kristen began her career in the financial software division. As a result of her success in this division, Kristen transferred into a corporate position where her skills could be more broadly utilized throughout the company. In this capacity, she was in charge of the newly created telecommuting initiative, the Staff Development Department, and the Recruiting Department. A good example of her unique skill set can be seen in the telecommuting initiative. This program was new to MEDITECH and, as a result, faced significant internal obstacles. Logistically, there were also numerous technical issues to address. Kristen was able to overcome these obstacles, launch the program in a timely manner, and establish a successful program in a very short period of time.

Perhaps Kristen's greatest strength is her ability to tackle difficult problems. This comes from a combination of her inter-personal skills coupled with her refusal to accept 'no' as a possible response. To put it simply, she removes obstacles and is tenacious in reaching her goal. At the same time, she accomplishes this in a very diplomatic manner. She is a 'bridge builder' and attempts to form a consensus from all involved parties. The end result is a successful project that all parties can accept.

Kristen was promoted to Manager shortly after joining her new group. Her enthusiasm is infectious and she is a tremendous motivator of her staff. She also takes the time to educate her staff, teach them, and allow their careers to develop and flourish. She is very approachable and was a great resource for her staff. At the end of the day, Kristen possesses a unique set of skills that will allow her to accomplish any goal that she has set for herself.

Sincerely,
Robert Lane Morse, Esq.

Thumbs up to the leadership and community in Wilmington for keeping our town affordable to raise a family in and realize the American dream.

Wilmington

On my way to work this morning I couldn't help but notice that Sonic Burger has installed not one, but two signs. To those of you who are not familiar with Sonic Burger or haven't been by their Route 1 location, the second sign is a very bright, illuminated neon sign.

It's bad enough that Sonic is here but allowing them to install the neon sign, a new low for Main Street!

If you get the chance Google "Sonic Burger Food Quality" and enjoy the results!

Oh yeah, welcome to Route 1 Orlando, once known as Wilmington MA USA.

Wilmington

To the persons who stole my 1984, Blue Yamaha,complete with Wilmington Town plate:

I am disabled/retired due to health issues and put the moped in the front yard in the hopes of trading it for an adult 3-wheeled bike for exercise and fresh air.

Did you realize that when you came onto my property and stole my moped that you were interfering with those hopes?

If you had knocked on my door I probably would have let you have it for $35.00 - basically the cost of the mirror. I might have suggested you try to find me an adult 3 wheeler as trade, even if it needed some work.

When you see me walking around Wilmington with my cane, or my cart that turns into a chair so I can rest, please say hello and let me know who you are, Not! The rest of you can say hello if you would like.

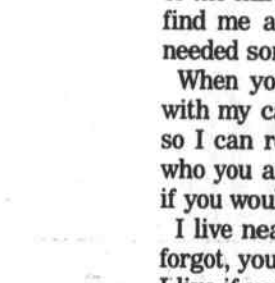

I live near the Lake on Grove Ave - Oh yeah, I forgot, you stole the moped and remember where I live if you would like to return it.

I hope I don't sound too bitter because I enjoy talking to new people; If you see me walking say hello, Dennis.

A vote for Polimeno

Dear Editor:

On April 10, 2010, the residents of Tewksbury have an opportunity to elect Krissy Polimeno as School Committee Member. Simply put, Krissy is the best person for the job.

I first met Krissy when our daughters took dance classes together. I had an opportunity to meet Krissy first as a dedicated mother and coach and then as a champion for our schools. Through our casual conversations in the dancing school lobby, I learned a lot about Krissy's family values, her commitment to her children, and her enthusiasm for the educational and civic activities in which she participates. Krissy's passion and commitment to public education were evident and over two years of chatting in the dancing school lobby, I began to recognize the importance of public education.

I credit Krissy's enthusiasm and dedication to public school for helping me recognize the importance of getting involved with our children's education. I stopped exploring private school options for my daughter and chose to enroll my daughter in public school. I immediately became involved with my daughter's school and I was asked to join the Budget Advisory Committee (BAC), where I had my first opportunity to work with Krissy. I witnessed her driven work ethic and can-do attitude first hand!

Krissy is one of the most motivated people I have ever met. She has the ability to work on several projects at one time and give 110% percent to each activity/committee she is involved in. We all had a chance to see that recently as she stood up and worked so hard to get Tewksbury a new superintendent and a new high school. She is full of energy and is definitely a go-getter.

The thing I most admire about her is her ability to listen and respond honestly. She is direct, straightforward and truthful. She has the confidence to stand by what she says.

Krissy has so much to offer and we would be foolish as a town not to give her the ability to do so. A vote for Krissy is a vote for our kids, our schools and our community.

Sincerely,
Barbara Lawton

Another Year Over the Boards

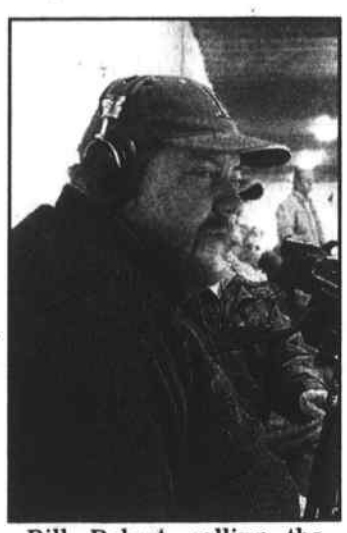

By Bill Robert

Once again spring is here, and another Varsity High School hockey season has come to a close. For the past four years it has been my pleasure to be able to cover Wilmington High School Hockey games seen on WCTV.

Over that time we have seen the Wildcat Girls and Boys Varsity Hockey teams at home and during the playoffs. In 2007 we saw the Wildcat Girls Team come within a goal of reaching the state final game. In 2008, we saw the Wildcat Boys Team come within a goal of the state title. We have seen a lot of thrills, and I have had an enormous amount of fun during these years,

I'd like to thank the players and the parents for their enthusiasm and support over these past four seasons. It has been great fun, and a great honor to be able to bring these games to the small screen. I'm happy to show all of Wilmington what your teams are doing.

During the year, we receive telephone calls from people asking if we can videotape a sports event or an event at one of the schools. Callers refer to something they watched on WCTV. We explain the same thing to everyone – our volunteers shot that. When I do the hockey games, I do so as a volunteer on my own time, not as an official representative of Wilmington Community Television.

Bill Robert calling the action

The games shown on WCTV channels are videotaped and produced by our volunteer members. The volunteers joined WCTV, spent time being trained on our professional video cameras and learned how to shoot and edit sports video. People who signed out our equipment and taped these games submitted them for cable casting. Volunteers such as Rick Aronofsky, Paul Curtin and Dave McMahon have volunteered to cover sports each season such as the Boys Basketball games.

If you have a sporting or school event that you would like to see on our local channels, the best way to ensure this programming is to become a WCTV member and consider videotaping the games! Just ask our continuing line of school band parents, such as Mark Levine, who is a current WCTV member and spent time videotaping and editing school concerts, about his experiences.

If you don't have your own camera, don't worry! WCTV has professional camcorders that are ideal for this purpose! WCTV membership offers you access to professional video cameras and editing equipment that you can use to make your child and others look like stars on local television.

If you don't know how to use a camera, we can help with that, too! We offer training at all levels of experience and we can teach you not only how to videotape events, but also what to do with your footage to produce your own unique program.

If you're not sure you have the time in your own schedule, consider asking your booster club to fill out an organizational membership. This membership offers up to four members access to WCTV's training, facilities and equipment. This way, you have several members who can take turns covering games or performances.

For just $15 a year for individuals or $50 for organizations, you can produce your own program! Start the process by visiting our studio at 10 Waltham St. and signing up. We'll show you what it takes to "take to the field" and produce what can truly be called a "field production!"

What were they thinking?

Dear Editor

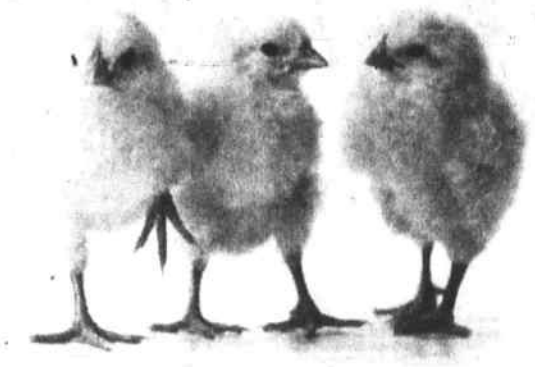

To the congressional delegation from Massachusetts, (except Steve Lynch), I would just like to ask you this question, what in the world were you thinking in voting for the national healthcare plan? Don't you know that we already have universal healthcare in Massachusetts, it's called Mass Health. A plan so good that the new national healthcare plan is modeled exactly like it. Our plan is so good that the federal government has been reimbursing Massachusetts to the tune of $600 million dollars a year in Medicaid payments because of the quality of the healthcare in Massachusetts. Now that the national healthcare plan is moving forward, Massachusetts will be looking at a shortfall in funding in the coming years that will ultimately have one of two results, cuts in services or increases of taxes. We know what the recent increases in taxes have done, it has made NH and RI very happy neighbors. Gee thanks for thinking of us! And if that is not enough for you, two weeks ago Gov. Deval Patrick's administration was proclaiming that Massachusetts was starting to turn the corner and that we were going to end the 2010 fiscal year on a positive note. Just 14 days later the administration finds a $300 million dollar gap in the budget, mostly related to Medicaid payments, with just 3 months left in the fiscal year to fix the problem! And do you know who is going to pay the bill? You guessed you and me! All Gov. Patrick has left in his bags of tricks this late in the fiscal year is to cut local aid payments, which would have a devastating affect on cities and towns all throughout the Commonwealth. All I really want to know at this point is what the Math MCAS scores are for those working for the Patrick administration, apparently his staff was not included in President Bush's No Child Left Behind Act.

OBITUARIES

John "Larry" Boudreau

Born in Canada; thrived in America

WILMINGTON - John "Larry" Boudreau, age 87, of Pelham, NH, formerly of Wilmington, died unexpectedly, Tuesday, March 30, 2010 at the Lowell General Hospital.

Larry was born on December 11, 1922, in Lower Melbourne, Nova Scotia, Canada, he was the dear son of the late Everett and Elizabeth (Amirault) Boudreau. Larry grew up in Lower Melbourne and at the age of 18 he enlisted in the Canadian Army during WWII, serving with the Corps of Engineers. Larry was honorably discharged in 1946 and moved to the United States, settling in Wakefield, MA before becoming a United States Citizen in 1962.

Larry served as Commander of the Canadian Legion in Arlington.

Larry married Jean M. Hanlon on September 29, 1951. They lived in Arlington for many years before building a home and moving to Wilmington in 1965. Larry and Jean raised their three children in Wilmington, involving themselves with sporting events and school functions with their children and grandchildren.

Larry was an extremely talented craftsman, prior to retiring in 1987 Larry was employed as a Millwright for Harvard University in Cambridge for over 31 years.

For enjoyment, Larry loved to dance. He returned to Nova Scotia frequently to stay close with his family. He and his wife Jean enjoyed their many trips to Florida. Their family summered in Chatham boating, fishing, lobstering, and just relaxing at the beach.

Larry was a "Jack of all Trades". He could always be counted on for advice with a project or help building and repairing anything, he was a perfectionist. If you were fortunate enough to receive one of Larry's Grandmother Clocks, you would cherish the time and talent that he put into them. He always said that "I'll forget more than you'll ever know".

Larry was a sports "nut". He enjoyed watching the Bruins, boxing, and especially the Red Sox. He would get more than a little excited when they were losing.

Larry will be fondly remembered as the beloved husband of 52 years to the late Jean M. (Hanlon), devoted father of Sharon J. Despres & her husband Bob of Pelham, NH with whom he resided, Paul L. Boudreau & his wife Karen of Wilmington, and Mark Boudreau & his wife Kathy of Gloucester, loving grandfather of Cameron and Danielle Despres and Ryan, Courtney, and Patrick Boudreau, dear brother of John Harold Boudreau of Somerville, and the late Elizabeth Mae Baudreau, Joseph Harvey Boudreau, and Norman Vadness Boudreau, special uncle of Donna Marie Southard of Burlington. Larry is also survived by many nieces, nephews, great-nieces, great-nephews, and dear friends.

Family & friends will gather at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington on Tuesday, April 6th at 9:00 a.m. followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas of Villanova Church, 126 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington at 10:00 a.m. Interment Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington. Visiting hours Monday, April 5th from 4-8 p.m.

Charles A. Cushing

Aviator, sportsman, founder of Wilmington Forms; first to land an airplane on Silver Lake; member of Elks, Masons and Shriners

WILMINGTON - Charles A. Cushing, age 70, a life-long resident of Wilmington, died unexpectedly, Friday, March 26, 2010, at the Boston Medical Center. Born on October 29, 1939, in Lowell, MA, Charlie was the dear son of the late Lawrence H., Sr. & Gertrude (Baldwin) Cushing. Charlie was a graduate of Wilmington High School, then served in the United States Navy during peacetime in the late 1950's. He went on to continue his education at Bryant MacIntosh School of Accounting and Aviation and completed flight training at Tew-Mac Airport in Tewksbury, MA. He then went on to Northeast Airlines Flight Engineering School where he was academically at the top of his class and trained to become a commercial pilot. As luck would have it, when Charlie finished his training, the airlines went through huge lay offs and he had to turn to a different occupation. He then attended and graduated from Wentworth Institute as a certified welder and became an ironworker and certified welder for Baldwin Steel whom he worked for many years before continuing on into the Iron Workers Union Local #7 in Boston where he worked on the Mystic River Bridge.

Charlie was very smart and a hard worker, aside from his job as a welder he founded C. A. Cushing Inc. doing business as Wilmington Forms and was responsible for many house, addition, and building foundations all over the area.

Never losing his love of flying, Charlie was a member of the 1638th Aero Squadron and the Tew-Mac Aviation Association in Tewksbury and the Ancient and Honorable Artillary Company. He was the first to land a small plane on Silver Lake in Wilmington. He was a member of the Burlington Scuba Diving Club. He enjoyed diving with his cousin Jack Baldwin and friends on many diving trips with the club. He became an avid golfer and participated in many charity golf tournaments with his family and friends. Charlie grew up in the Silver Lake area and was a strong swimmer. He could be found on many occasions swimming across Silver Lake with his German Shepard, Midnite.

He was also a member of the Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks, the Masons, Shriners, and the Ironworkers Local #7.

Charlie will be fondly remembered for his work ethic, great smile, and big heart. He was a "gentle giant" who would do anything for anyone. He was devoted to his family, friends, and neighbors, and he savored the little things in life. He enjoyed the outdoors and he had a great fondness for animals. Charlie was well known in Wilmington and he will be greatly missed.

Charlie is survived by his beloved wife of 48 years Evelyn R. (Pearson) Cushing, he was the devoted father of Sherri Berry & her husband Steven of Salem, NH, Shawn Cushing & his wife Kimberly of Logansport, IN, and Charlie Cushing & his wife Leone of Gloucester, MA, loving "Papa" of Hayden Cushing of Gloucester and PFC Christopher Berry of Ft. Campbell, KY, dear brother of Patricia Robarge & her husband Joseph "Sonny"of Wilmington, Gertrude "Pudge" Cushing of Tewksbury, John "Jack" Cushing & his wife Sandy of Wilmington, Joan Buckley & her husband Ed of Tewksbury, Gerald Cushing & his companion Diane of New Hampshire, and the late Lawrence H. "Snooky" Cushing, Jr. and James Cushing, brother-in-law of Marion Cushing, Suzi Cushing, and Ted Pearson all of Wilmington, Charlie is also survived by many nieces, nephews, great-nieces, great-nephews, cousins, and dear friends.

A Funeral Service to celebrate Charlie's life will take place on Wednesday, April 7th at 11:00 a.m. in the Wilmington United Methodist Church, 87 Church Street, Wilmington. Visiting hours will be held on Tuesday, April 6th from 4-8 p.m. at the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., 187 Middlesex Ave. (Rte. 62), Wilmington. Memorial donations in Charlie's name may be made to the M.S.P.C.A. c/o Development Office, 350 South Huntington Ave., Boston, MA 02130.

Gedaminsky makes Deans List

LOWELL - Patrick Gedaminsky, of Wilmington; a first year student at U Mass Lowell in Lowell, was named to the Dean's List for his outstanding academic achievement during the fall semester of the 2009-2010 year. He is currently a Criminal Justice Major.

Gedaminsky graduated from Shawsheen Valley Technical High School in June of 2009. He graduated eighth in among a class of 283 students.

Shawsheen's Seniors of the Month for February

BILLERICA - Amy DeCelles was recently honored by Shawsheen Valley Technical High School as one of February's Seniors of the Month.

DeCelles, of Tewksbury, is an active and successful member of the Shawsheen Tech community in both athletics and academics.

Ranked within the top 10 of her class academically, DeCelles is one of the school's top performers in the Business Technology shop.

A member of the National Honor Society and the secretary of NHS, DeCelles has received numerous Citizenship Awards in English, chemistry and business. She was also honored by Shawsheen for having perfect attendance.

When DeCelles isn't in the classroom, she is just as busy.

She is the vice president of the Teen/Dating Violence Awareness group at Shawsheen and was a member of both the Ram varsity volleyball and girls lacrosse teams. DeCelles has done her share of volunteering as well, walking in a local Relay for Life last year and completing the Boston Area Rape Crisis Center's (BARCC) Walk for Change.

DeCelles has exciting future plans.

She hopes to study business at a four-year college and eventually pursue her Master's degree.

Conrad J. Gerhartz

42 years with G.E.; member of many clubs and organizations in Wilmington

WILMINGTON - Conrad J. Gerhartz, age 82, a long-time Wilmington resident, died Thursday, March 25, 2010 at home with his family at his side, following a lengthy battle with cancer. Born in Wausau, Wisconsin, he was the son of the late Conrad P. and Johanna M. Gerhartz. He served the United States Navy for three years on several Navy vessels and was involved in the testing of the Atomic Bomb in the South Pacific. Shortly after his discharge Conrad moved to Massachusetts settling in the Boston area. He moved to Wilmington in 1955.

He attended M.I.T. in Cambridge, graduating from the Apprentice Program for General Electric. He worked as an Mechanical Engineer for General Electric for over 42 years prior to retiring in 1989.

Conrad was very active and involved in his community. He was a member of the Fr. Croke Council Knights of Columbus, the American Legion, Friends of the Harnden Tavern, and most notably the Boy Scouts Troop #63 and the Explorer Scouts. A devout Catholic, he was a communicant of St. Theresa's Parish in North Reading.

Conrad was very dedicated to his causes, especially the water contamination issues in Wilmington. He attended many town meetings and voiced his genuine concern for the safety, health, and welfare of the Wilmington residents due to water quality.

Conrad will be fondly remembered as a dedicated father, grandfather, Scout leader, neighbor, and friend. He touched the lives of many and will be greatly missed.

Conrad was the beloved husband of the late Mary L. (Healy), devoted father of Steven Gerhartz & his wife Susan of Bradenton, Fla., Leah Gerhartz of Wilmington, Laura McCormack & her husband Jeff of Nashua, NH, Barbara Morse of Billerica, and John Gerhartz & his wife Kristin of Reading, loving grandfather of Michael, Kelly, Dennis Jr., Lindsey, Jennifer, Zachary, and great-granddaughter Kyleigh. Tewksbury Memorial High School

Global Awareness Month

TEWKSBURY - Every March the Humanities Department sponsors Global Awareness Month at Tewksbury Memorial High School. This year, the students completed a month long campaign focused on relief efforts for the Haitian earthquake victims. The Humanities Department, in conjunction with members of many of the school's clubs, coordinated this school-wide campaign.

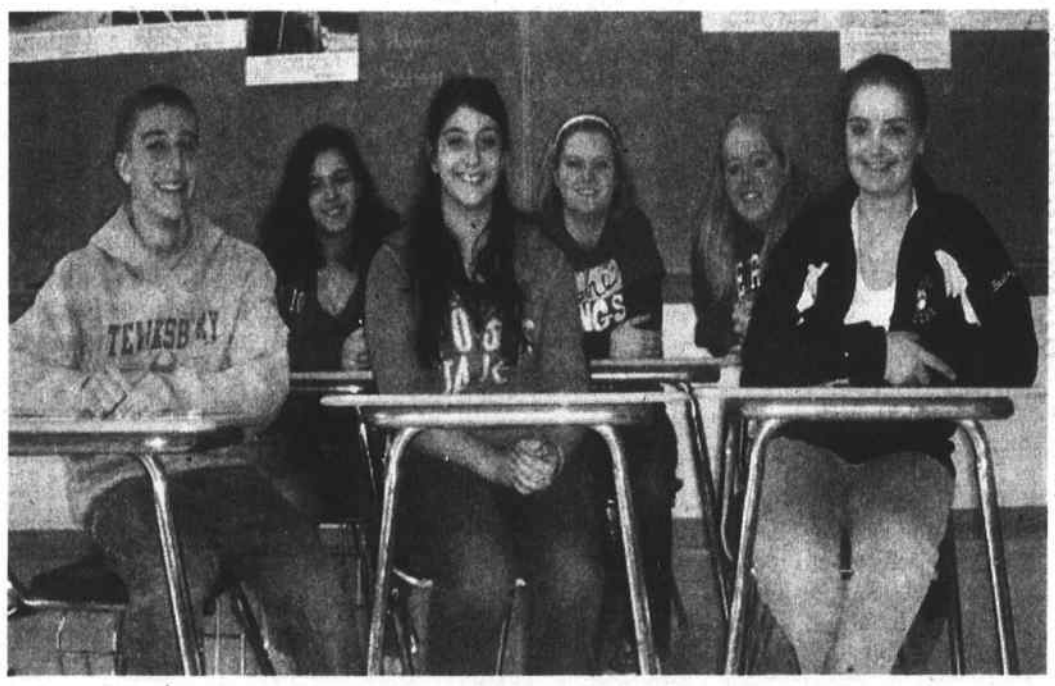

During the first week of March, the ECHO Club (Earth, Culture and Humanities) coordinated a food drive and collected much needed items from all the classes. The classroom that collected the most food received a special "popsicle" party as a reward. Mrs. Hardacre's senior British Literature class enjoyed their treat.

During the second week of March, the sophomore class coordinated a clothing drive and was able to collect several bags of clothing for delivery to Haiti.

The third week of March brought a toiletries and medical supply drive coordinated by the JCL (Junior Classical League) and SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions). The JCL treated winners of that week's event to ice cream sandwiches. Many students were able to bring in much needed items like band-aids, soaps and shampoo.

During the final week of March, the TMHS School Council coordinated a coin drive to collect monies to help defray the costs of transporting the items to Haiti.

Each week, students from the NHS (National Honor Society) coordinated the pick up and deliveries of all items collected. Overall, the month-long program yielded significant contributions to the Haitian effort and community involvement on a school wide basis.

Team Trivia fundraiser for Tewksbury Scholarship Fund

TEWKSBURY - The Tewksbury Scholarship Fund Committee is pleased to announce that it will have its first-ever fundraiser, a Team Trivia Contest, on Saturday, May 8, at 2:00 PM at the Tewksbury Senior Center. To make the contest unique from similar events run by the Tewksbury High School Parent Advisory Council, the questions will be geared towards Seniors and Baby Boomers, with a focus on events from the 1940s to 1980s, but contestants of all ages are welcome!

Keith Rauseo, chairman of the Tewksbury Scholarship Fund Committee, will emcee the event and act as the Quizmaster. He noted, "The questions will be challenging, and people will have to bring their 'A' game if they want their table to win the grand prize, but these events are mostly just a lot of fun for everyone."

The Tewksbury Scholarship Fund has been in existence since 2004, and has made annual awards to Tewksbury students since the spring of 2005. The fund raises money through donation forms included with the spring tax bills each year, and the Team Trivia Contest will be its first fundraising effort beyond that annual process.

Rauseo said, "We've been able to do five $250 scholarships most years, but we're hoping to provide more awards, for larger amounts, as we move forward. If this event is successful, we could have four or five times more money to give to deserving Tewksbury students. We've made awards to students from Tewksbury High, Shawsheen Tech, and private schools, so this really is a town-wide event."

Teams must reserve entire tables, for up to ten contestants, at $150 per table. Teams answer each question as a table. Light snacks will be provided, and refreshments will be available for sale. Teams can also bring their own food items. The doors will open at 2 PM and the contest will begin at 3 PM.

Reservation forms are available at the Senior Center, the Town Clerk's office, or online at www.tewksbury.info under "News and Announcements." You can also request a reservation form by e-mail, get answers to questions about the event, or offer to make raffle or refreshment donations by contacting Keith Rauseo at 978-851-7545 or krauseo@comcast.net.

Hanson makes Dean's List

WEST HAVEN, CT - Bethany Hanson of Wilmington was named to the Dean's List at the University of New Haven for the fall 2009 semester. Full-time undergraduate students must have a 3.50 or better cumulative GPA for the semester to be eligible for the Dean's List.

A leader in experiential education, the University of New Haven is experiencing a historic and nationally recognized surge in enrollment. Founded in 1920, the University provides its students with a unique combination of solid liberal arts and real-world, hands-on professional training. UNH is a private university with an 80-acre main campus. The University has an enrollment of more than 5,200; approximately 1,700 graduate students and more than 3,500 undergraduates, 70 percent of whom reside in University housing. The University offers more than 80 undergraduate degrees and more than 25 graduate degrees through its five colleges, in fields such as sports management, nutrition, forensic science, music and sound recording, engineering, computer science and criminal justice. University College at UNH develops programs and courses to meet the emerging educational and training needs of educators, businesses and public and social agencies, focusing on academic excellence, convenience and flexibility. University of New Haven students study abroad through a variety of distinctive programs.

TMHS SADD

TMHS Students Confront Destructive Lifestyles

Slow Down! Despite other dangers, speed can still kill

By Kate Hirsch, TMHS Sophomore and Member of SADD

We are all constantly reminded never to drive under the influence of alcohol, or any other chemical substances. Most recently there has been a nation-wide push to ban texting while driving. Just last week, Oprah's one hour show focused on the tragedies of texting and driving. Hopefully, most people are aware of the extreme consequences of these actions.

Over the past weekend, while my Uncle Joe was visiting, he opened my eyes to the dangers of something that even the "good" people do: speed. The awareness for me came through his story during this visit as he told me of something that had left a lasting impact on him. When he was 16 years old, he and three other friends were all members of their church's CYO. One Sunday morning, on their way to get doughnuts for the church, the boys were driving way too fast. My uncle was sitting in the back seat next to his friend Mike. Tragically, speeding caused them to crash and at the age of 15, their friend Mike was dead. The decision to speed caused the accident that killed one of their best friends. No drugs, no alcohol, no cell phone, no texting.....speeding.

I think sometimes we are so focused on these other issues, as we should be, that we may forget the dangers of speeding. According to Drive for Life, excessive speed is the second most common cause of deadly auto accidents. In 2008, 31% of all auto accidents were caused by speeding. $40.4 billion is paid by people of this country in speeding fines each year. The effects of speeding dramatically slows a persons' ability to safely maneuver their vehicle, yet people still believe that speeding 10 miles over the limit is OK. In a recent study, 61% of people admitted to exceeding the speed limit, 90% said they had a family member experience the effects of a car crash, but 56% said they never changed their driving habits.

In most cases, even though people will disagree, speeding does not get you to your destination any faster than if you obeyed the speed limit. One person admitted that even driving 90 mph for five minutes straight only got him to his destination one minute earlier than his GPS had predicted. Nobody should have to lose somebody because of a careless driver. People need to understand that anybody is capable of speeding, but we are also capable of being smart and making the right decision.

Wilmington Rec Dept sponsored a two week trip through Italy. Here Jim Day (left) and Peter McMahon are in the Colusseum. They visited Venice, Rome, Isle of Capri, and saw Mount Vesuvius, among many other places.

OBITUARIES

Edward A. Nary, Jr.

Tradesman & mechanic

TEWKSBURY - Edward A. Nary, Jr., age 57, of Tewksbury, died unexpectedly, Sunday, March 28, 2010. Born on November 2, 1952 in Rochester, NH, Eddie was the beloved son of the late Ann D. (DesRoches) Nary of Tewksbury and Edward A. Nary, Sr. of North Carolina.

Eddie grew up in Tewksbury and was a graduate of Tewksbury High School Class of 1970. Eddie was a smart guy, there wasn't anything he couldn't do when he put his mind to it. He was employed for many years as a tradesman and a mechanic until he had a bad accident and that forced him to retire from the construction industry. Eddie went on to work for Prince Pasta in Lowell for several years until he retired. In his spare time Eddie enjoyed cooking and was eager to try his recipes on his family and friends. Eddie was also an avid golfer and loved to follow New England sports teams especially the Red Sox and Patriots.

Eddie is survived by his daughter Christy Nary of Belton, Missouri, his brothers and sister Michael Nary of Tewksbury, Lee Nary of Bar Harbor, ME, Kevin Nary of Venice Beach, FL, and Karen DesRoches of Wolfeboro, NH, his two nieces Amy and Michelle Nary, his step-father Bob Couture of Tewksbury, as well as many cousins.

A Graveside Service to celebrate Eddie's life will take place on Thursday, April 1st at 12:00 noon in the Tewksbury Cemetery, 172 East Street, Tewksbury. Memorial donations in Eddie's name may be made to the M.S.P.C.A. c/o Development Office, 350 South Huntington Ave., Boston, MA 02130.

Funeral Arrangements are under the direction of the Nichols Funeral Home, Inc., Wilmington. www.nicholsfuneralhome.com

Marion F. Smith

Devoted wife, mother, and loving grandmother

WILMINGTON - Marion F. (Costello) Smith, age 84, of Reading and Wilmington formerly of Wakefield, passed away quietly in her family home early Wednesday morning, March 24, 2010. Marion was born in Melrose, Massachusetts on September 6, 1925, to Frank D. and Marion F. (Kennedy) Costello. She is survived by her sister Margaret Allen of Hopedale and was predeceased by her brother John Costello of Wakefield and Elizabeth Rock of Byfield. Marion was the beloved wife of the late Richard F. Smith, Jr., who passed away in August 1999.

She will be dearly missed by her two children Jean Marie Hurrell & her husband Philip of Wilmington and Richard F. Smith III of Reading. Marion was the cherished "Nani" of Marie and Kara Mae Hurrell of Wilmington and Kevin James and Kendra Elizabeth Smith and great grandson Everett Matthew Foster all of South Carolina. She also leaves two wonderful care giving friends Mary Carbone of Tewksbury and Wendy Tribou of Billerica.

Marion was a member of the Low Vision Group in Reading as she was legally blind the last 15 years of her life due to Macular Degeneration. She was a communicant of Saint Joseph's Church in Wakefield. Prior to her illness, Marion was a hard worker, a devoted wife and mother, and a loving grandmother. She enjoyed spending her free time with her family, as her illness progressed she spent the last few years of her life with her daughter and family in Wilmington.

A Mass to Celebrate Marion's life took place on Saturday, March 27th at 10:00 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church, 173 Albion St., Wakefield. She was laid to rest with her husband in Forest Glen Cemetery, Reading.

Memorial donations in Marion's name may be made to the VNA of Middlesex-East & Visiting Nurse Hospice, 607 North Ave., Suite 17, Wakefield, MA 01880.

George L. Webster

Gifted artist; worked in printing; WWII Veteran

WILMINGTON - Mr. George L. Webster, of Wilmington passed away peacefully in his home on March 26, 2010, he was 81 years of age. He was the beloved husband of Jean E. (O'Donnell). Born in Worcester he was the son of the late Leroy H. and Viola Mae Adams (Brown) Webster.

Mr. Webster was a Wilmington resident for more than fifty years. Mr. Webster was raised in Worcester and was a member of the Worcester Boy's Club from ten years old until his late teens. He graduated from Commerce High School in Worcester and from the Worcester Boys Trade School as a printer. Following graduation he worked in Washington D.C. for a year with the Dept. of Internal Revenue before being drafted in to the armed forces. He was sent to a supply tech school in Wilburton, OK and then to Tallahassee, FL. in the Army Air Force. He was an Army Air Force Veteran of WWII honorably serving as a Staff Sergeant from 1942 to 1945. After his honorable discharge from the Army Air Force he went back to work for the Dept. of Internal Revenue in Boston for only a year and then went into the printing business.

Mr. Webster was a gifted artist and loved working with watercolors. He even taught watercolor painting for ten years at the Wilmington Senior Center. He was also an avid reader and particularly enjoyed reading about early American History.

In addition to his beloved wife Jean, he is survived by their children, Alice Sexton of Derry, NH, James Webster and his wife Gloria Parkinson of Clinton, and Melissa Carrington and her husband Jay of Haverhill. He is also survived by five grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

In keeping with his wishes, funeral services will be private. Arrangements by the Dello Russo Funeral Home of Wilmington. To leave a message of condolence please visit www.dellorusso.net

Wilmington girl is

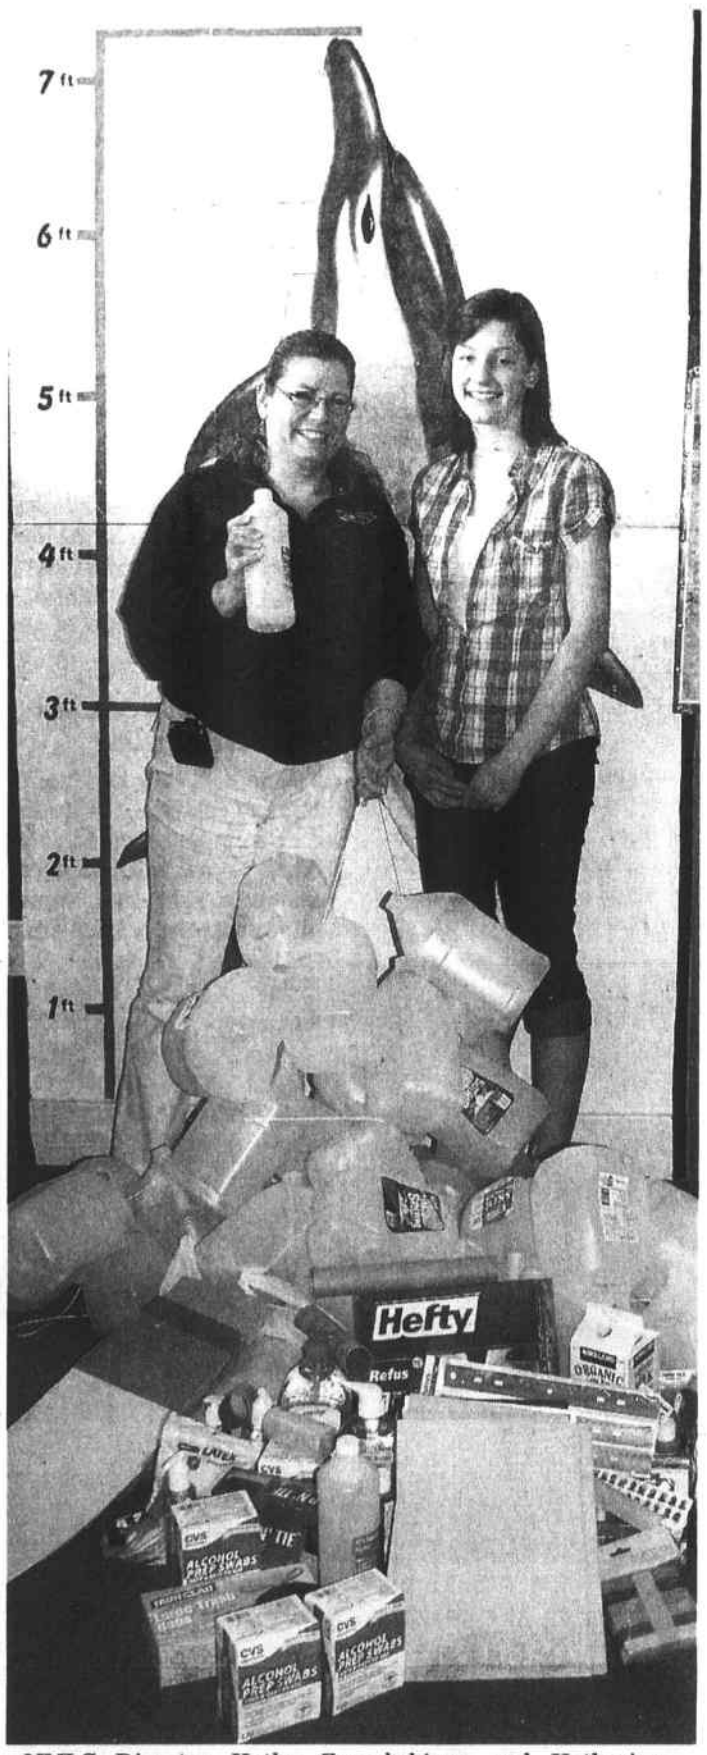

Marine life's best friend

WILMINGTON - Wilmington 8th grader, Katherine McKenna, collected close to 150 items from her family, friends and teachers to donate to the National Marine Life Center in Buzzards Bay Massachusetts. The National Marine Life Center, or NMLC, is an independent, non-profit marine animal hospital, science, and education center dedicated to rehabilitating for release stranded sea turtles, seals, dolphins, porpoises, and small whales, and to advancing scientific knowledge and education in marine wildlife health and conservation.

The NMLC suffered a roof collapse and is in the process of re-building. Katherine visited the NMLC this past weekend and was given a tour of the facility by the President & Executive Director, Kathy Zagzebski. Katherine viewed a diamond back terrapin named Patty who was rescued a year ago after she had been found nearly frozen. She fed Northern red-bellied cooters as well as baby diamond back terrapins. Both species are endangered salt marsh residents, which the NMLC is helping recover by a captive hatching and release program. Ms. Zagzebski explained that the both sets of baby turtles will be big enough to be released this spring. She also said that there would be six large turtle and small seal tanks ready for patients in the next two months. The rest of the facility will be completed as funding becomes available.

Since the facility has been out of operation, hundreds of animals have stranded on Cape Cod and have had to be transported to other facilities hundreds of miles away in Maine and Connecticut. The fate of small whales is dire. Whales do not transport well and must be humanly euthanized if they strand because of injury or illness. Once the NMLC is fully operational they will be the only facility within hundreds of miles that is able to house and rehabilitate small whales.

Marine animals make ideal teaching tools. Dolphins, whales, seals, and sea turtles are charismatic and interesting. By using marine animals as subject material, National Marine Life Center instructors address topics from biology to physics, writing composition to art, math to technology. Marine animals also make ideal subjects for lessons on conservation and human impacts on our environment. For more information on NMLC please visit http://nmlc.org.

Friends Provide Financial Support for Library Programs

Without funding from the Friends of the Library, wonderful programs, (such as the recent program presented by the YoYo People) would not be possible. There is no charge to the audience because the Friends fund the cost of performers and expert speakers. At the Friends of the Library Annual Meeting on March 18, Jim Lemay, Treasurer, reported that the Friends gave the library over $15,000 for library programs in 2009. Thank you Friends of the Library! Anyone interested in joining the Friends to support continued programming may pick up an application at the library or print a copy from the library's web site www.wilmlibary.org.

Going to Kindergarten? Sign up for a Library Card!

The Wilmington Memorial Library and the Wilmington Public Schools would like all children entering kindergarten in September 2010 to have a library card. Stop by the library with parent or legal guardian by May 1st and get a library card (or use the one you have) and you can be entered in a free drawing to win a book bag filled with school supplies. Thank you to the Friends of the Library for sponsoring this drawing.

New Movies at the Library

The library has added the following feature films to its DVD collection. Check out one "Hot Title" for two nights. On Mondays, you can check out two Hot Title DVDs. You may also place the DVD on reserve and borrow that copy for one week.

Poetry Contest Deadline Saturday April 3

The theme for 2010 Poetry Contest is "Money." Poems submitted will be judged on how well the poem depicts this theme. Winners will be selected by a panel of judges in the following six categories: adult, high school, middle school, elementary school grades 4 and 5, grades 2 and 3, and K to grade 1. Prizes will be awarded by the Friends of the Library. Winners and honorable mention recipients will be invited to read their poems and receive prizes/certificates at Poetry Night on Tuesday, April 27. Applications with the contest rules are available at the library and on the library's website at www.wilmlibrary.org.

Book Discussion for Ages 9 & Older

The Hobbit, by J.R.R. Tolkien
Friday, April 16, 3:30 pm
"In a hole in the ground there lived a hobbit. Not a nasty, dirty, wet hole, filled with the ends of worms and an oozy smell, nor yet a dry, bare, sandy hole with nothing in it to sit down on or to eat: it was a hobbit-hole, and that means comfort." So begins the masterpiece of fantasy, The Hobbit, by J.R.R. Tolkien, the story of one hobbit, Bilbo Baggins, a respectable, well-to-do hobbit, who lives comfortably in his hobbit-hole until the day the wandering wizard Gandalf chooses him to take part in an adventure from which he may never return. Drop in for the discussion. Copies of the book may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room. A door prize and snack will be provided by the Friends of the Library.

Selectmen race

written statement that he was running because he "could not see another year with uncontested seats. Last year's 4 percent is rather sad for a voter turn out."

Newhouse and Cimaglia both cite professional government as a strength for the town and actively promote the concept as part of their agenda.

"When folks talk to us about the Business Week honor (in which Wilmington was named as Massachusetts' "Best Affordable), I will take credit for defending and promoting professionalism in government," said Newhouse. "My approach is to hire capable, committed professionals to operate the day-to-day operations of the town and hold them accountable to a high standard of performance."

Cimaglia concurred, citing as well the e-Government Award from Common Cause.

"We're getting awards for open government and I think that's very important for the town and we need to continue doing that," said Cimaglia.

Cimaglia points to a number of achievements as well during his first term including putting the town counsel on a fixed fee (as opposed to hourly billing), being able to sustain the level of services in town without fees and with a "favorable tax rate for all" during a difficult economic climate.

Nelson, however, does not agree that the tax rate is favorable for all; particularly not for senior citizens. Though the town already offers seniors tax abatements through Chapter 41C, which comes with reimbursements from the state, Nelson would like to see further tax breaks for seniors paid for, in part, by eliminating the flat fee or putting a cap on the town counsel billing. His rational is that the town counsel fee is a waste of money since "most of the cases I am familiar with never should be in court to begin with," said Nelson.

The desire to reduce the town counsel charges is significant, since Nelson has himself brought numerous appeals of the planning board, the zoning board of appeals, and has even brought forth a couple of cases involving the police department, through to land court and Middlesex Superior Court.

Cimaglia also praises last year's connection to the MWRA, securing "safe, potable water at no cost to ratepayers," because the town "held Olin's feet to the fire."

Newhouse also recounted the successes of the milfoil treatment at Silver Lake, improved technology in town, an aggressive sidewalk construction program, and the continued maintenance of town property.

Looking forward, both Newhouse and Cimaglia see many of the same challenges facing the town. Both recognize the challenges of local aid cuts likely on the horizon for FY2011.

"We are going to have to weather the storm," said Newhouse. "It will be a challenge to continue to provide the services that we provide facing continual and deeper cuts at the state level."

"We've been able to balance our budget and we have an affordable tax rate," remarked Cimaglia, adding that the challenge to maintain services and capital improvements - such as new police cruisers, fire trucks, and school repairs - will be among the most important "things to do with the economy as it is now."

Regarding Article 10 of the upcoming Town Meeting, both gentlemen support the feasibility study of Wilmington High School so that "residents can continue to make informed decisions about education," said Newhouse, father of two boys; ages one and three, adding "I'm committed to implementing whatever is necessary for a quality education at the high school."

The feasibility study will culminate in conceptual plans for either the renovation of the existing facility or the construction of a new high school.

"It's a very important issue," said Cimaglia, who echoed the sentiments of Newhouse. "Now is exactly the time, because we can secure a more favorable rate for construction bids and borrowing rates. But most important is that the voters have all the information to make an informed vote."

"It is all about the process at this point. No one is deciding at this point whether or not to build a new school or remodel. We just need to follow the process through," added Cimaglia, who has one son, Louis Cimaglia, V, who recently graduated from Wilmington High School, and two more children poised to enter in a few more years; Nicholas in seventh grade and Brittany in third.

Nelson is opposed to Article 10, however.

"I have never seen so many abandoned homes in town and properties in need of significant repair," Nelson wrote in a statement to the Crier. "I understand that the study is solely connected to the funding process of building a new high school. Does this study also link funds to any renovations or new buildings? There are plenty of studies on file to date and knowledge available from various Departments in town, for the town to complete it's own study. The state has cut local aide and still needs to reimburse the town for the special election. There is no guarantee that $600,000 of the 1.2 million will be reimbursed. A lot of people are hurting financially and now is not the time."

While both incumbents noted that environmental concerns would continue to require much attention, Newhouse specifically spoke about the town's ability to monitor progress and developments at the Olin site through the ongoing EPA work.

Newhouse has set youth sports as a priority this year with efforts to secure more playing fields for the variety of athletics in town and to improve the fields that the town already uses. He is also looking forward to more information through the I-93 tri town task force and wants to see more done toward redeveloping Wilmington Center.

Other areas of interest for Nelson includes the construction of a fire substation in North Wilmington, a recreational resource center at Silver Lake, bringing sewer service to North Wilmington, and a sidewalk fund.

"If the voters agree to keep me on, I will work hard to continue maintaining the affordable tax rate with no user fees, and will work hard with the town's department heads to maintain the level of service to which the residents of Wilmington have become accustomed," said Cimaglia.

I'm really proud of the last three years," said Newhouse. "The Board of Selectmen hasn't always agreed on everything but there is a sense of decorum and civility that everyone deserves. I credit everybody on the board."

Candidate Daniel Murphy has not responded to calls from the Town Crier.

John Watters and Harry Atamian welcomed guests to the Masonic Hall in Wilmington during the Free Masons open house on Saturday. John is a two-year member of the organization and Harry is a 46 year member and Past Master.

Environmental Leadership

ment by 75 percent. Energy conservation and equipment upgrades have resulted in an overall 10 percent improvement in facility energy efficiency.

"I applaud you for all of your efforts for making your facility safer and especially for finding innovative ways to save water since as you know, our resources are limited," said State Rep. James Miceli who presented a citation to Analog Devices. "In all of my years working as a selectman and in the state legislature, Analog Devices is the best example I've come across of a company doing the right thing while also being successful."

The company's long-term commitment to improving environmental performance has also been beneficial to meeting customer demands for safer products.

"Because of the TURA planning framework, we are in a better position to meet customers' needs for green products," said Beth Tshudy, Environmental, Health and Safety Manager at Analog Devices in Wilmington. "Our TURA plan wasn't something we wrote, put on a shelf and then updated in two years. This work is embedded into our management system and measured. This TURA award validates Analog Devices' long-term commitment to the environment and public health."

"Environmental, health and safety plays a major role in our company," says Ira Moskowitz, Vice President and General Manager of U.S. Operations at ADI. "When the TURA law was passed 20 years ago, we weren't so sure how it would work out. But today, I can say that we are a national leader in the reduction of toxics and TURA is a major part of our success. We are not only meeting the needs of our business but we are also meeting the needs of our families and environment. We are very honored to receive this award."

For a full schedule of company tours, visit www.turi.org.

About the Toxics Use Reduction Act Program

Twenty years ago, the Massachusetts legislature passed landmark legislation—the Toxics Use Reduction Act (TURA). Today, the TURA Program is considered a model environmental policy by other states and countries. The three agencies below have provided training, grants, technical assistance and support to help companies reduce toxic chemical use and costs, improve health and safety and establish new green markets.

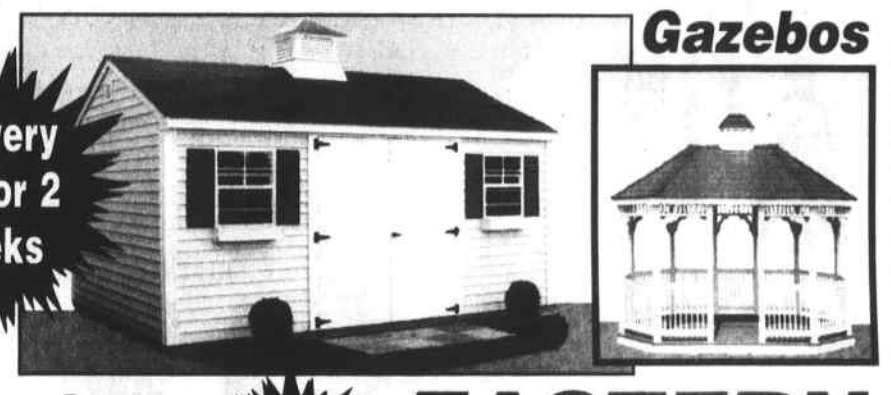

Toxics Use Reduction Institute (TURI) at the University of Massachusetts Lowell. Provides education, training, and grants for Massachusetts industry and communities; sponsors research and demonstration sites on safer materials and technologies; provides policy analysis; and manages the TURA Science Advisory Board.

Office of Technical Assistance & Technology (OTA). A non-regulatory agency within the Executive Office of Energy and Environmental Affairs that provides free, confidential, on-site technical and compliance consultations to Massachusetts businesses and institutions.

Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (MassDEP). Certifies Toxics Use Reduction (TUR) Planners, receives and reviews toxics use reports submitted by companies, provides guidance, takes enforcement actions, and collects chemical use data and makes it available to the public.

to the community," said School Committee Chair Margaret "Peggy" Kane.

Due to the building's age and other factors, Wilmington High School was invited last October to start a feasibility Study by the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA). The invitation came as a result of last spring's Senior Study site visit during which members of the MSBA, accompanied by architects and school construction specialists, toured Wilmington High School. The school, built in 1952, was praised by MSBA for its condition, which reflects well on how the community will maintain a new building should the state elect to invest in it.

Still, most of the internal working systems of the school, like wiring and plumbing, are also 58 years old, and like most public buildings, are used heavily. Perhaps the greatest needs though are programmatic, with the older building not being able to adjust for the needs of a twenty-first century education.

"We know that there is an issue with the space at the high school. We have 135 students that are in the band, Strings Attached, and chorus; we don't have enough space to allow them to practice together. We don't want to say no to students that want to participate in those creative arts," said Kane. "Our science programs are also suffering for lack of labs, limiting the scope of the curriculum."

Kane praised Principal Eric Tracy for his ability to respond to varying academic needs within the curriculum and student body, but emphasized that the limited space is a significant factor.

Superintendent Joanne Benton told the Crier that she believes the accreditation process begun recently will impact the facilities standard portion of the survey.

"It's clear to me that the physical plant impedes the delivery of educational programs and support services at the high school," said Benton.

Article 10 on the Town Meeting Warrant calls for a total amount of $1 million to $1.2 million for the feasibility study, with a guaranteed 48.47 percent reimbursement from MSBA. Passing the article, which received unanimous support from the School Committee, would allow the town to enter the next phase for the high school project, enabling the hiring of an Owner's Project Manager, the creation of a conceptual design, and the development of a cost analysis. The goal, as stated by MSBA, is to find the "most fiscally responsible and educationally appropriate solution" for the high school.

Kane notes that the town will not likely see another opportunity to partner with an entity willing to pay significant costs toward a new or renovated high school. Tewksbury received a 60.06 percent reimbursement on its new school, with those payments made every 30 days during construction, saving that town the bonding costs.

The state overhauled the school financing system after out-of-control costs for 1,150 local school construction projects led to $11 billion in outstanding financial obligations. Perhaps the most flagrant example of wasteful school construction spending is the now infamous Newton North High School, projected to cost $200 million. The MSBA was created in 2004 to halt such cost overruns and began with a four-year moratorium on applications for school building grant funding.

"The MSBA is committed to protecting the taxpayer's dollar by improving the school building grant process and avoiding the mistakes of the past in the funding and construction of school facilities," says the statement.

According to a statement from MSBA, to date, MSBA has made approximately $6.3 billion in reimbursements to cities and towns for school construction projects inherited from the former program - $4.1 billion of which are accelerated payments to districts that had been waiting years for a partial payment from the state prior to the creation of the MSBA. Those timely payments have saved municipalities over $2.8 billion in avoided local interest costs and improved cash flow to communities in these difficult economic times.

Transforming the classroom

Technology Coordinator for the Office of Information Technology [OIT].

"I think that this technology has been some of the easiest to integrate into the classroom since the teachers see the immediate benefit and rewards from its use. The software that comes with the interactive whiteboard is superb and includes hundreds of lessons already built in as well as an ever growing community of teachers online who develop lessons and post them online," added Ellis.

Wilmington has been mounting interactive white boards throughout the district. Thirteen were installed at the high school over the summer, along with 25 mounted projectors. At the Shawsheen School the Rotary donation will purchase two new interactive white boards to be installed in classrooms with another two digital projectors for teachers to use.

Due to the talent of the district's technical staff, led by Ellis, the installation cost is limited to the mounting materials only. Not having to pay $1,500 in labor for a professional saves a tremendous sum that can be applied to purchase additional equipment.

High School Boys Basketball team honored at Celtics game

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Last Wednesday night, 17 members of the Wilmington High School Boys' Basketball team along with the entire coaching staff were honored on the parquet floor of the TD Garden during halftime of the Boston Celtics-Denver Nuggets game.

And while the recognition was a tremendous honor for the team, and the entire festivity was something they'll never forget, head coach Joe Maiella said his team did exactly what any other team would have done.

Back on January 19th, Tewksbury Memorial High School senior Meghan McCarthy, passed away after a three-year battle with an inoperable brain tumor. The next night, the Wilmington and Tewksbury boys basketball teams were set to play a game at WHS, but behind great accommodating efforts by Maiella, and the school's athletic director Ed Harrison, the game was moved to that Sunday but to be played at TMHS as part of a doubleheader with the Tewksbury Girls playing afterwards as part of the town's celebrating Meghan's life.

Tewksbury High School Athletic Director Brian Hickey and boys' basketball coach Jim Sullivan thought so highly of the way Wilmington handled the situation, they sent a letter into the Massachusetts Athletic Association, who in turn first honored the WHS Boys Basketball team at the state basketball finals back on Saturday, March 13th with the 2010 MIAA Division 2 Team Sportsmanship Award, before the MIAA and the Celtics gave Wilmington the Sportsmanship Alliance of Massachusetts Award for the 2009-10 season last week.

"It was just unbelievable," said Maiella. "Starting with the Division 2 award. But I think we did what any other school would have done. But saying that, I think our kids showed a tremendous amount of class by wearing the pink arm bands and I think they just showed such great class and respect.

"That day was all about how the town of Tewksbury did such a fantastic job coming together and honoring Meghan's life. I spoke to Coach Sullivan about Meghan and he told me just how she was an unbelievable person. It was unbelievable for us as a team to be part of the town's celebration of her life."

Maiella was totally taken back by the notion of what Hickey and Sullivan did.

"I feel that it's the Tewksbury boys and girls teams who should have been awarded for everything they did," he said. "That's just my opinion. But we can't thank them enough for writing the letters."

The Wildcats were first recognized for the Division 2 Sportsmanship Award back on March 13th at the DCU Center by legendary Tewksbury administrator Tony Romano, a member of the MIAA. Harrison, like Maiella, was flattered with the award.

"I would like to believe that sportsmanship is an ongoing attribute at Wilmington High School," said Harrison. "We pride ourselves on being prepared for any situations that might arise at a contest. Our coaches buy into the philosophy that it is best to do what is right. We play to win, however, never is it to win at all costs."

Last Wednesday night, the recognition continued as the entire team went into Boston for the Celtics-Nuggets contest.

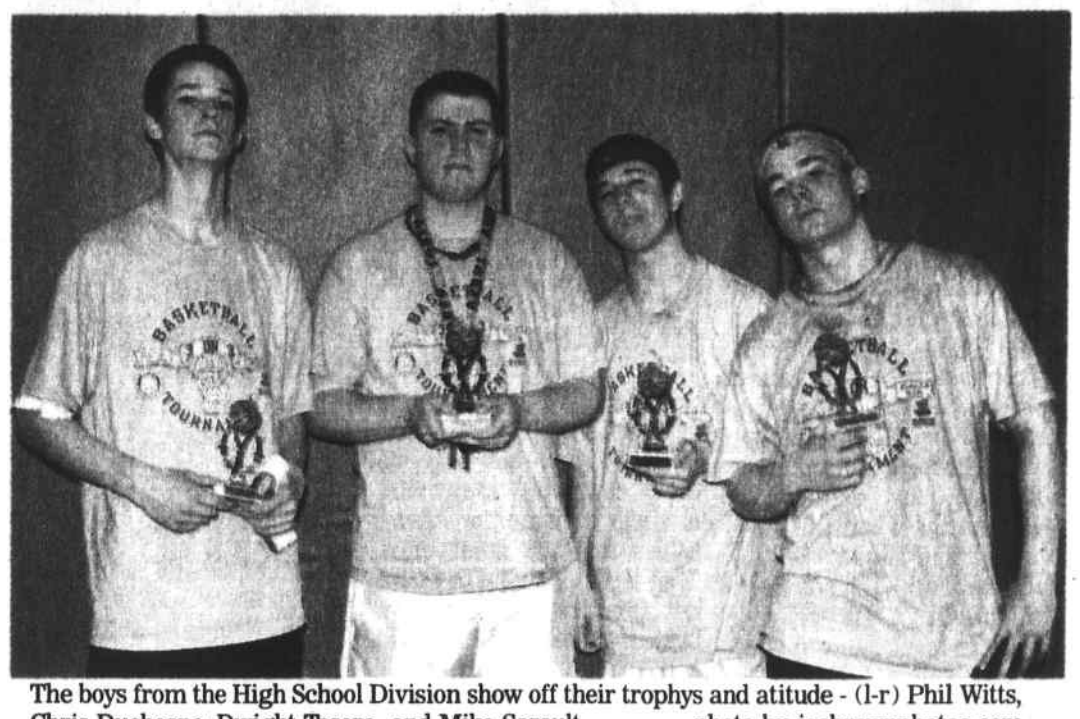

"It was a tremendous event for the entire team," said Maiella. "It was a pretty special night. It was pretty cool walking onto the court, and then we also went into the Red Auerbach room, saw the autographed jerseys of Bob Cousy and Larry Bird."

Then at halftime of the game, the Malden High Girls were honored first, who were recognized for their off the court excellence, and then came the members of the WHS Boys team.

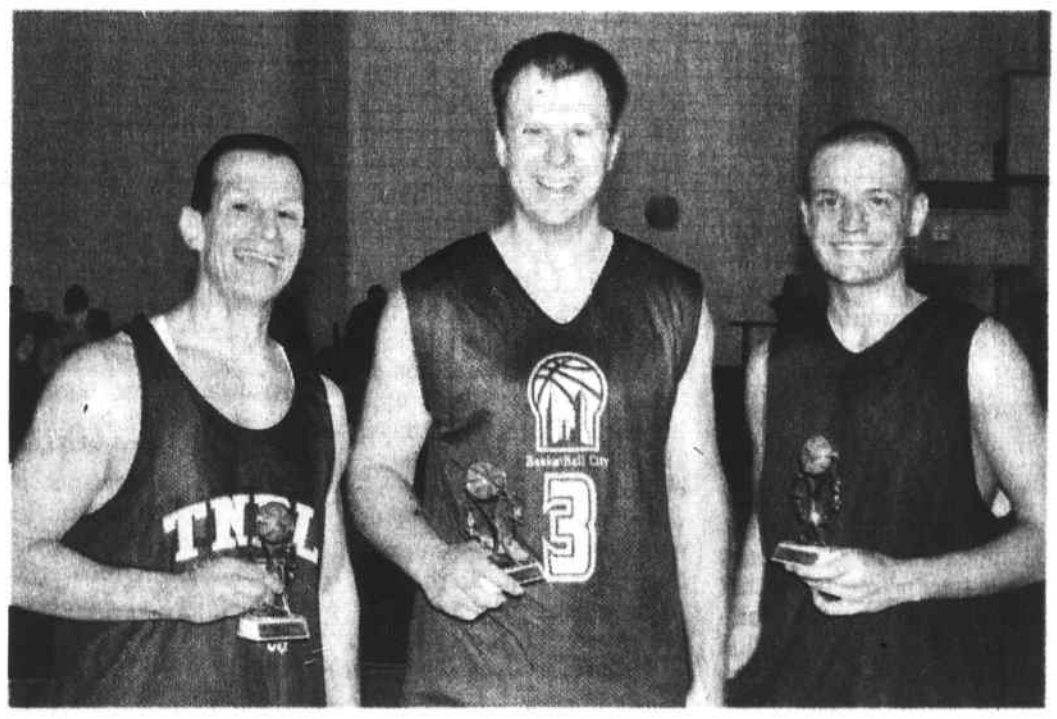

"Both of these teams set the bar in terms of sportsmanship on and off the court this season," said Celtics' President Rich Gotham. "The Celtics organization is proud to support the MIAA in recognizing these exceptional student-athletes and support sportsmanship in all levels of sports."

Gotham along with former Celtic Dana Barros and MIAA Deputy Director Bill Gaine presented the awards first to Malden, and then to Wilmington.

"Just to walk out on the Garden Floor was something I'll never forget and I know the kids won't either," said Maiella. "The entire event was special, but it's all because of the great people over at Tewksbury, who truly did something very special to honor Meghan."

Rotary Club/Wilmington Trophy score big with 3-on-3 tourney

By CHRIS RICCIARDI
Sports Correspondent

When most people think of basketball in March, they think of the NCAA Basketball Tournament. However, this past Saturday, the Wilmington Rotary Club and Wilmington Trophy hosted their own version of "March Madness" with a 3-on-3 basketball tournament held at the Wilmington Middle School.

For everyone involved, the tournament proved to be a huge success.

"[The tournament] was a lot of fun, and its something, I think, we can look forward to next year," Rotary Club president James A. Ficociello said. "Everybody's walking around with a smile. It's a good place to be."

There was a hidden meaning to this tournament. The Wilmington Rotary Club gave money to new members in order to fund a project in town. The new members decided to buy a Smart Board for Shawsheen Elementary School.

In return for the money, they were expected to direct an event that would benefit the entire town. The incoming class of members, led by Bob Ennis and Dan Woods, decided to hold the basketball tournament.

The double-elimination tournament was divided into several groups based on age. Each game was composed of two eight-minute halves, and the game was played on a half-court.

The boy's fifth-grade/sixth-grade team of Brian Cavanaugh, Matt Woods, Matt Spurr, and Justin Kannally took home trophies with a victory over the squad made up of Cameron Walsh, Scott Stenson, Russell Abbott, and Zachary McCulley.

In another match-up, the high school team of Phil Witts, Chris Deschens, Dwight Tesoro, and Dan Murphy won first-place honors after a victory over the team made up of Cam Shepard, Brett Meuse, Matt Celeste, and Mike Kelly.

The boy's third-grade/fourth-grade team of Graham Smith, Dan Gracia, Jon Simmons, and Danny Woods also won trophies with a victory on their division. The team made up of Joey Rebeiro, Kyle Ritson, Nithish Kalpat, and Jason Vallee took second place in the division.

In the girls fifth-grade/sixth-grade division, the team of Makaya Donahue, Sarah Klucznik, Samantha Pitzi, and Erica Pudvelis took first-place after a victory in the championship game. The team of Ashley Delucia, Melissa McNamara, Teresa Gracia, and Francesca Barone finished in second place.

To round out the field, the seventh-grade/eighth-grade division was won by the team made up of Rachel Mara, Nicole Potcner, Katherine McKenna, and Julie Welch. The team of Rachel McLaren, Adrianna Kippenberger, Kaitlyn Cowden, and Marina Otis was the runner-up.

In the adult division, the trio of Jon Demarco, Rich Demarco, and Adam Rizzo impressed onlookers with their athletic prowess and basketball skills.

For a couple of guys just looking to have a good time, that's quite an accomplishment.

"We came out looking to have fun," Rizzo said. "We knew it was for charity. It was more for the kids. We had some great competition; the kids were great. It was a good game. We weren't looking to take it too seriously, but we all had a great time."

The three players took home the top prize in the adult division after several great performances. They were able to defeat the team of John Witts, Mike Filva, John Quinn, and Josh Zarella in the championship game. During that match, John Demarco was able to hit a miracle shot while he was falling out of bounds.

"The only thing I could do was take a shot at the time," Demarco said, "and it went in."

There was a separate division for adults over 35 years old. In that league, the team of John Cremens, Karl Nesline, Drew Smith, and Bill Campbell took home the top prize after a victory in the championship game over the squad composed of Dan Sullivan, Dan Ardito, Fred Barone, and Sean Butler.

Common sense prevails with new football alignment

By: Rick Cooke

Common sense does have a place in the world of competitive high school football after all. The Massachusetts Interscholastic Athletic Association membership last week shot down a proposal for an expanded statewide football playoff system that would have wrecked rivalries and sent many schools on cross-country rides to towns that could care less about the Merrimack Valley Conference, the Cape Ann League, or the Middlesex League, where Wilmington will begin play beginning in 2011. That is when this new lineup would have kicked in, and that would have been two tough pills for the Wildcats to swallow in one very big gulp.

Not only was the proposal shot down, it failed miserably by a rather wide 190-114 margin. Leagues would have been dissolved in favor of divisions based on enrollment, with 50 percent of teams qualifying for playoffs that would lead to a state champion in each division. Traditional Thanksgiving rivalries would remain intact, and the season would end the first Saturday in September, with some teams having as many as three games lopped off their regular season schedules.

Sound good? Everyone would get to play at Gillette Stadium, and the 'everybody gets a trophy' mentality that has begun to permeate competitive youth and high school sports starts to seep in and leave a nasty blemish. Why shouldn't football become like every other sport, when sometimes the very best means six or seven wins? Sure, there are football teams that go 10-2 or 9-1 some seasons and feel left out. This is football, and not backgammon, and when an athlete turns 15, that's the time when a tough break can be a good lesson on the way to victory. A team notches 10 wins and gets no game at Gillette Stadium where the Patriots play? That is a tough break guys, but come back next year and give it another shot. Why wreck a system that might not be perfect, but for now it's the best we've got? The MIAA wisely shot down an idea whose time had definitely not come.

Leave it to the oldest coach in the nation to help turn the tide and level some logic at a silly notion that something so solid should be fixed by tossing every single team into one big melting pot. Lexington High School's Bill Tighe is 85-years-old and has seen many a knock-about idea come down the pike. He didn't much like this one. Tighe told the Boston Globe in no uncertain terms that the MIAA would be wise to stick every single thumb down. Good for him. "I am against it totally because it's destroying tradition in high school football, traditions that have gone on for years and years," offered Tighe.

The Merrimack Valley Conference had already made a decision that it would walk away from this new set-up had it passed. The league would have considered petitioning the MIAA to not participate in the new playoff system, moving on to try a separate playoff with teams going with the same thought process. Preserve rivalries and preserve leagues- where believe it or not- standings still mean something.

The MVC already addressed certain unbalanced enrollments by splitting into two divisions before last season. The conference had two solid teams play for title last year in Billerica (Division I) and Dracut (Division II). Neither school had anything to complain about, and remember when Dracut was treated like that 'little kid' on the block? Now, the Middies play Everett and Brockton and not only do they compete- they win, making a name for themselves and the conference. That boys, is a goal to strive for. Football has always been a game where a David can knock a Goliath on his butt. What did Bill Parcells tell his first New York Giants team? "That is why you lift all those weights. That is why you run all those sprints." There is that feeling- that emotional buzz that can often only be found on the gridiron- where emotion sometimes goes hand-in-hand with blocking and tackling.

The MIAA Sports Medicine Committee endorsed the plan that would have eliminated the tough schedule of Super Bowl qualifiers playing three games in 10 days. Supporters of the plan claimed that three-times as many players would get to experience the post-season. Sure sounds like they want to make everyone happy at the expense of the competitive correctness. There are plenty of other ways to keep football players healthy. Haven't we had enough of trying to make everyone happy? That, my friends, is a dose of reality, even in a land of supposed equal opportunity. News flash- sometimes life- right along with competitive sports- is not fair. Some schools make their own breaks- enrollment be damned.

What was probably the real deal breaker in all of this? Costly bus rides, eroding fan support with tough rides on the slate, leading to scheduling difficulties and reduced gate receipts. Football is very often a sport that supports an entire high school athletic program, so officials should think long and hard before fiddling with the financial golden goose- no matter how small the money pile has become in relation to the size of a school's enrollment. Yes, there are many issues to wrangle with other than wins and losses and a December date at Gillette Stadium.

Too many games played on Thanksgiving morning would be reduced to glorified exhibitions under the failed proposal. Some of the competitive luster was taken away from the Thanksgiving Game between Tewksbury and Wilmington when the Wildcats decided that leaving the MVC was the best move for WHS athletics. Wouldn't it be great if we could have another game like 1976- when the Redmen and the Wildcats were not only playing for the MVC title, but a spot in one of the early Super Bowls? That will never happen again, but thankfully there is a deep-seeded sense of tradition that keeps this rivalry's heart beating.

A new plan put in place for the sake of getting more teams involved in that hunt for a trophy would only make another dent in tradition. Sure, old guys like me resist change. This time, I'm happy. Next time, I'm sure I will have more questions- until a better plan comes along.

Mite II's take home Gold Medals

The Wilmington Mite 2's are the champions. The kids won the Hallenborg Tournament in Billerica. They played four games in three days and took home the gold medals around their necks.

The championship was won by beat Tewksbury 2-1 in the finals of a busy weekend. After the game, the boys and one girl lined the blue line as gold medals were placed around there necks.

The play got started on Friday night when the Cats faced off against Burlington. It was a back and forth battle with Wilmington coming out on top 3-2. The team was led by two Dylan Wargo goals with assist from Julia Ryan and Dean Nally. Also scoring was Kyle Collins with a helper from Matt Pendenza.

Saturday morning, the Wildcats dismantled Billerica by a 5-0 score. The team of no stars was evident as the team scored five goals by five different players.

The great defensive duo of Matt Miller and Felicia Zuccola contributed not only great defense but Zuccola two assist. Drew Miller came out from the goalie position the previous night to score a goal and assist.

The best wrist shot on the team, Will Lawson scored. Julia Ryan got another assist. Sunday's hero, Jared Russell added two assist. Breakaway Collins added his second goal in as many games. Cameron Banks made it a three point morning with a goal and two assist. The most dynamic personality and player around, Dylan Wargo added a another of his patented goals.

Sam Cedrone pitched the shutout against Billerica. The play of the most improving defensemen in the Valley League, Justin Crowley, made the shutout possible.

With two victories in hand, the Wildcats had already secured a trip to the finals. The Cats lost in a rough and tumble battle with Tewksbury, 5-3. The loss would set the stage for the Sunday afternoon showdown.

The loss was highlighted by the play Dean Nally and Dylan as they accounted for the three goals, Dean 2, Dylan 1.

The Sunday match-up between Wilmington and Tewksbury served as an introduction for the youngsters to the notorious town rivalry. Sam Cedrone kept Tewksbury off the board as the teams battled half way into the game a 0-0 tie. The scoreless tie was broken on a Cameron Banks wrist shot off a rebound. Banks aided by the assist from Kyle Collins and Will Lawson. Not to be outdone, the battle tested Redmen came storming back to tie the game up at one.

Late in the third period, Dean Nally and Drew Miller set up Jared Russell to become a hero scoring the game winning goal in the championship game.

On Saturday the Mites went down in defeat to Lynnfield 4-2. The game was highlighted by Kyle Collins and a Dylan Wargo goal a piece.

The play was at a much higher level on Sunday morning as the Wildcat's shutout Medford 3-0. The game featured great passing and solid defense. Julia Ryan stuffed home a rebound and Kyle Collins lit the lamp with a blistering shot. Drew Miller notched his fifth shutout of the season.

Sunday afternoon, the Wildcats played a full game at the Tsongas Arena prior to the Lowell Devils AHL tilt. After the game, the kids celebrated the end of the season with pizza, soft drinks and continued camaraderie with teammates.

Dylan Wargo was named Most Valuable Player for game in and game out excellence. Dylan's progress from last season to this season has been astounding. Dylan saw his game take off once placed on defense. On defense, his offense emerged. Dylan is a leader on and off the ice. His humor always kept the locker room light, whether he cracked the team up with a funny one-liner, a dance or any other antic.

Felicia Zuccola was named the team's Most Improved Player. This coach favorite's improvement was incredible. Felicia can be asked to play any position on the ice and her game sense is off the charts. Whether it is practice or a game, you can always look behind her helmet's cage and see a smile.

Drew Miller was named the Shutout King. Drew is a second year mite and team leader. He played half the games in goal and still had the 5th most points of the team. When the team needs a shutout, they look to Drew Miller.

Matt Miller was named the Defensive Player of the Year. This up and comer plays like a veteran. He thinks defense, defense, defense. Defense wins championships and championship teams need a Matt Miller.

Dean Nally was named Overall Player of the Year. Watch out! Dean is the one man wrecking crew. He forechecks, he backchecks, he plows over all comers. Not surprisingly, he also leads the team in PIM's. Dean thrives on one on one battles and can always be counted on for his best effort.

Will Lawson was named Best Hands Award. This goal scorer can stick handle, shoot and finish. Once the puck is on his stick, watch out for the blistering wrist shot. The sky is the limit for this first year player.

Justin Crowley was named the Most Improved Defensive Player. Justin has transformed his game over the past two months. He is a natural defenseman as his confidence grows everyday. Justin's played peaked while winning the Hallenborg Tournament in Billerica.

Sam Cedrone was named the Puck Stopper of the Year. The youngest member the team improves everyday. No matter the size, nothing intimidates this fearless youngster. Sam is a gifted goaltender with natural abilities that will make the Wilmington High School coach very happy in the years to come.

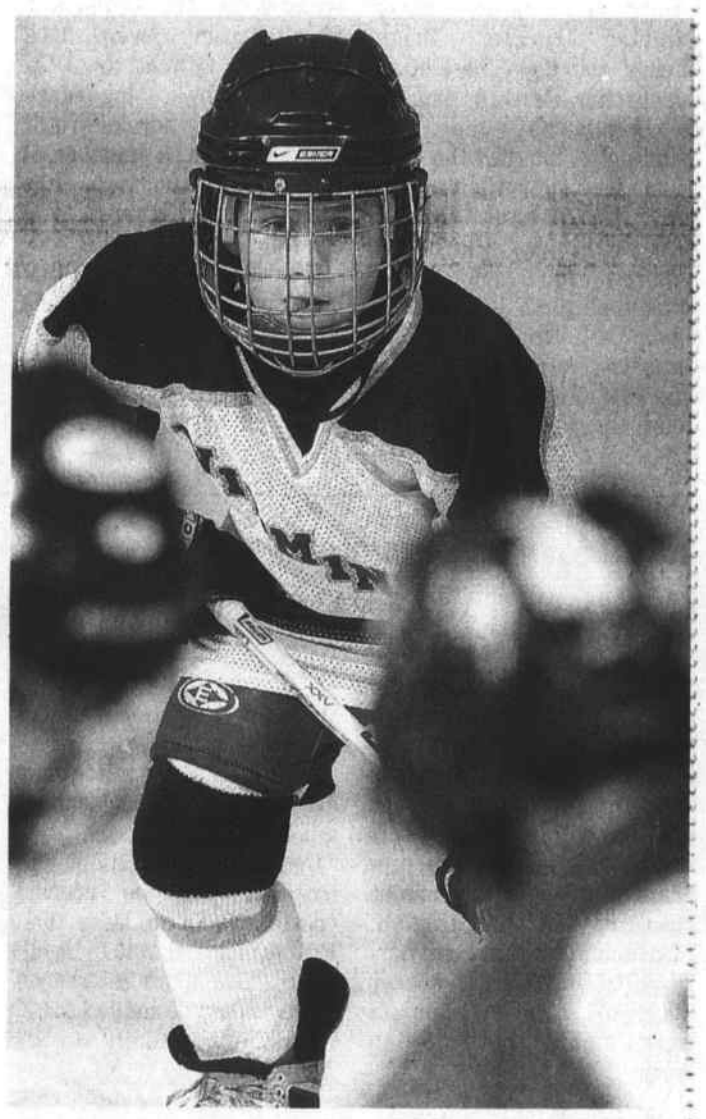

Julia Ryan was named the Most Improved Offensive Player. Julia is the scrappiest player on the team and you will find her covered in snow on every shift. She is always in front of the net and is the Rebound Queen of the team.

Jared Russell was given the Fastest Skater Award. When Wilmington wins, you can bet Jared had a good game. He truly is the straw that stirs the drink for the Wildcats. Speed is his game and he has lots of it.

Kyle Collins was named Offensive Player of the Year - Kyle Collins is flat out the best Mite 2 hockey player in the Valley League. His stick handling and skating ability is second to none. Kyle is full out effort at all times.

Cameron Banks was named Offensive Rookie of the Year. This playmaker is most comfortable with the puck on his stick. Whether Cam is passing, shooting or stick handling, he is a threat to the opposing goalie.

Matthew Pendenza was named Defensive Rookie of the Year. This player joined the team part way through the year and not only became an emerging star but a natural team leader. He will cheer the loudest from the bench, pick up a goalie when his head hung low and then dazzle you with skills and smarts.

Stokes continues to hit at Northeastern University

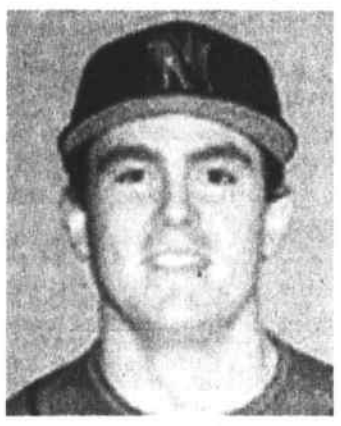

By DAN IGO
Sports Correspondent

IGO around WILMINGTON & TEWKSBURY

Brendan Stokes had a monster weekend offensively for the Northeastern baseball team, but unfortunately his exploits at the plate didn't translate into wins.

The senior first baseman from Tewksbury had a hit in each of the Huskies three games against Virginia Commonwealth down in Richmond. However, Northeastern lost all three games, two of them by one run.

Stokes had a double and a run in Friday's game, a 6-5 loss. In Saturday's contest, a 5-4 loss, he went 3-for-4 with a run and an RBI. He was 2-for-4 with a double in Sunday's 9-4 defeat.

BRENDAN STOKES

Stokes is currently batting at a .319 clip with 10 RBI and five runs. The Huskies will try to rebound this weekend when they take on Hofstra at home.

Wilmington's Carlton Lentini went 3-for-3 with two runs, two RBIs and a walk as he helped lead the Lasell baseball team to a 15-4 win over Norwich University in the first half of a doubleheader on Saturday.

The shortstop, a sophomore, followed that up in the nightcap with a 1-for-4 effort, driving in a run and scoring one as well.

Lentini has started all 10 games so far this season. He is batting .297 with eight runs and a team-leading 13 RBI.

Fifth-year senior Bob Sinopoli continued his impressive return to the mound as he threw six scoreless innings of two-hit ball in leading the Westfield State baseball team to a 5-0 win over Elms College on Sunday.

The Wilmington native allowed only two hits and two walks while striking out two. He boasts a record of 2-0 with a 1.84 ERA. He has struck out eight batters in 14.2 innings.

Before this season, Sinipoli hadn't pitched since his freshman year in 2006 because of injury. The Owls are currently ranked sixth in this week's New England baseball coaches Division III poll and sport a record of 11-3. They will begin MASCAC play this Friday vs. Fitchburg State.

Tewksbury's Scott Oberg continued throwing well for the UConn baseball team as he pitched an inning of scoreless relief in a 7-1 win over Yale on Wednesday.

The sophomore struck out two in the outing. He has a team-leading 10 appearances so far this season and sports a record of 1-0 with a 2.25 ERA.

Al Montalto had a double and a run for the Nichols baseball team as they defeated Roger Williams 4-2 in the second half of a doubleheader on Saturday.

The senior infielder from Wilmington also had a stolen base in the game. He has eight for the season, which leads the team.

Evan White picked up some more hardware as he was named the Northeast-10 Freshman Athlete of the Week.

White, a freshman sprinter on the UMass Lowell track team, won the 200 meter dash and also placed second, first among collegians, in the 100 meter dash at the Northeastern Spring Open last Saturday.

The River Hawks have this weekend off and next compete in the Jim Sheehan Invitational at Fitchburg State College on Apr. 3.

COLLEEN KENNEDY

White wasn't the only local athlete to enjoy success on the track at UMass Lowell. Colleen Kennedy, a freshman from Wilmington, finished in eighth place in the 1500 meters at the Walt Disney Invitational with a time of 5:12.27 last Saturday.

Wilmington freshman Erin McMahon earned her first doubles win of the year in an 8-3 win over Pace University in collegiate tennis action on Sunday. The Warriors won the match 8-1.

Tewksbury's Karla Rotundi scored her first goal of the year as she helped lead the Worcester State women's lacrosse team to a 17-13 win over Rhode Island College on Thursday. The win was the first for the Lancers this year.

Five local runners competed in Sunday's "Irish Feet are Running" road race in Lowell. Tewksbury's Linda Jennings finished in 21st place with a time of 34:08. Marli Piccolo's time of 39:31 placed her 55th, while Wilmington's Bruce Stone was right behind her in 56th place with a time of 39:47. Steven Skinner's time of 40:03 was good enough for 59th place. Jeanette Tino of Tewksbury placed 146th with a time of 49:11

Tewksbury Youth Hoop hosts several Championship games

Jr. League Championship
Sixers 17, Eagles 13

The Sixers defeated a tough and well-coached Eagles team to win the Junior Division Championship, 17-13. This is the Sixers' second Junior Championship in a row.

The Sixers jumped out to a four-point lead, but the Eagles came back and tied up the game. The Sixers then scored two quick baskets and led the rest of the way. Both teams had many good shots and both defenses stepped up to keep the game close. Alex Benning (6 points) and John Ciampa (5) led the Sixers on offense. Mike Teague, Michael Flynn and Jonathan Zurawski rounded out the scoring with two points apiece. Gavin MacDonald and Zach Karnell anchored the defense, keeping the middle of the lane clogged up.

Both centers rejected many Eagles' attempts at the basket and gathered in key rebounds. Jimmy Wink, Jack Callinan, Nolan MacDonald and Mackin MacDonald patrolled the baseline and low post, and rebounded well during the game. The Sixers coaching staff would like to thank all the parents and friends for the support you provided this year to the team.

Earlier Playoff results
Sixers 25, Hornets 13

The Sixers defeated a talented and tough Hornets team to advance to the Junior Championship game. The Sixers overcame an early deficit in the game and extended the lead in a tense battle. Michael Teague (9 points) led the Sixers scoring, followed by an inspired John Ciampa (7). Alex Benning chipped in with 5 points of his own as Jonathan Zurawski and Michael Flynn rounded out the scoring with 2 points apiece. On defense, Gavin MacDonald and Zachary Karnell plugged up the middle and kept the Hornets strong inside game at bay. Jimmy Wink, Jack Callinan, Nolan MacDonald and Mackin MacDonald kept the low post players contained.

Intermediate Division
Earlier Playoff Results
Pistons 47, Hornets 32

In a hard-fought game, the Hornets came out of the gate strong, led by Matt Lemos (13 points) and Brendan O'Connor (7). Ryan O'Neil showed great floor leadership in breaking a tough Pistons press and Jack Rose (4) battled on the boards all day against a bigger Pistons team. Billy Tamboli and Josh Thompson (2) came up with several steals while Ryan Barry played his usual stellar defense. Bobby Payne, Ryan Panessiti and Chris Zuraski kept the offense away with solid picks and sharp cuts to the hoop. It was a tough ending to a great year for an overachieving Hornets squad.

Sr. Division Championship
Magic 53, Blazers 40

Both the Magic and Blazers started off shaky in this game, one completely ruled by defense. The Magic full-court press applied endless pressure, resulting in many turnovers. Mark Brooks scored 5 in the first half and Chris Burak (5 points total) added two. Matthew Gaman (4 total) crashed the offensive boards for twowhile Dylan Cullen (2) played great defense.

The Magic gained a seven point advantage before the Blazers roared back, hitting three 3-pointers to take the lead. Cory Cataldo (11 total) hit two with a second left in the half to put the Magic ahead 22 to 21. At the start of the second half, the Magic switched their defense to a box and one. Marty Glynn (2) denied the Blazer outside scorers, set up his teammates and rebounded on both sides of the court. This set the pace for the Magic to dominate the third quarter. Joe Gonsalves (15 total) scored six and at four minutes into the third, the Magic extended their lead to 11. Camden White denied the Blazers an outside shot and Will McAllister seemed to find his hands on loose balls while boxing out the Blazers in the paint.

Tim Glynn's effort did not go unnoticed, coming up with loose balls of his own, then passing to open teammates for the bucket. Chris Blake was unstoppable in the middle, hitting 7 of his 11 points in the second half. Chris led all players in rebounding on both offense and defense. When it came to finishing, Joe Gonsalves and Cory Cataldo did what they did all season, combining for 11 points in the fourth.

For the Blazers, Dan Petrie (12) and Alec Pacheco (12) led the team in scoring, and both put forth a tremendous effort right to the final buzzer. Brendan Forti and Ryan Finneral were outstanding, running hard at both ends of the court. Patrick Fronduto (5) and Mike McDermott (1) fought all game, grabbing several big rebounds underneath the hoop. John Melloni, Brendan Bednarek, and Ricky Berquist (10) showed super hustle, applying great defense and never quitting on the play.

Scholarships available for children of military heroes

DULLES, VA - Those who defend our freedom know all too well the costs and sacrifices associated with serving in the United States Armed Forces. Many service members leave behind families who must continue their lives with a heavy heart. Other service members sustain wounds and injuries that prevent them from leading a normal life. To show gratitude on behalf of the American people, Freedom Alliance is proud to offer aid to the children of these heroes in the form of college scholarships.

If you or someone you know is the son or daughter of a service member who has sacrificed life or limb, then the Freedom Alliance Scholarship Fund is available to help alleviate the costs of college. Over $3 million has been awarded to hundreds of Freedom Alliance Scholarship recipients since 2002.

"Families of killed or permanently disabled service members face hardships that most Americans can not imagine," Freedom Alliance President Tom Kilgannon said. "To honor the men and women of our Armed Forces by providing scholarships to their children is a privilege. Paying for a college education is one hardship that these students should not have to endure."

An eligible applicant must be the dependent son or daughter of a U.S. soldier, sailor, airman, Marine or Guardsman who has been killed or permanently disabled (100% VA disability rating) in an operational mission or training accident, or who is currently classified as a Prisoner of War (POW) or Missing in Action (MIA). They must also be a high school senior or registered as a full-time undergraduate student and under the age of 26.

To learn more about the Freedom Alliance Scholarship Fund and/or to apply please visit www.fascholarship.com or call 800-475-6620. The application deadline is July 31, 2010.

The mission of Freedom Alliance is to advance the American heritage of freedom by honoring and encouraging military service, defending the sovereignty of the United States and promoting a strong national defense.

Disney adding interactivity to latest ship

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) — The walls and floors will come alive on Disney's latest cruise ship.

Over 20 pieces of moving artwork will line the decks of the Dream, which launches early next year, while two interactive floors will keep kids on their feet in the ship's youth areas.

The new interactive experiences were unveiled during a recent press demonstration at the headquarters of Walt Disney Imagineering, the company's creative design team.

The 22 pieces of "enchanted art" will be showcased on LCD screens encased in glass and surrounded by a frame housing speakers and a camera that can detect when a cruiser is in front of it. For example, if a passenger is looking at a photo of Walt Disney on the beach in Rio de Janeiro, the characters from "The Three Caballeros" may zip through the landscape.

"This is a great opportunity to do something special," said principle concept designer Greg Butkus. "We're really empowering our guests of all ages to interact with the art on every deck of the ship in way that hasn't quite been done before on this scale. ... We can truly say no two pieces of art will be the same."

The art, which also features images from classic Disney films, can also be transformed into Nintendo Wii-like motion-detecting mini-games as part of a shipboard scavenger hunt. Barcode technology is used in the game that will employ cruisers to search the decks for a Disney villain who nabbed either pieces of artwork or puppies from "101 Dalmatians."

In the ship's youth areas, children will be encouraged to step, jump and pound on two interactive floors featuring games with characters from such Disney films as "Bolt," "Tron" and "Princess and the Frog." Glowing pads around the floor's perimeter are used to detect weight and control what happens on 16 screens planted within the interactive floor surface.

The designers also flaunted a revamped version of Animator's Palate, a restaurant aboard Disney's two other ships. The new 700-seat eatery will be themed to an animation studio that comes alive during dinner with "Finding Nemo" characters on several LCD screens surrounding the restaurant, similar to the "Turtle Talk with Crush" theme park attraction.

Hedges serve variety of purposes

Good fences do make good neighbors, especially if you like hanging out with the wildlife crowd. The right collection of trees and shrubs adds long-term interest and privacy, while providing cover for birds, pollinators and other wandering critters.

Decide what it is that you want from a living fence and then select some flowering shrubs (lilacs, quince, weigela), deciduous bushes (barberry, burning bush, spirea) or evergreens (arborvitae, boxwood, yews) to accomplish it. All provide a different look or serve a different purpose, from security to nourishment to sound abatement. And there's nothing wrong with blending varieties or even incorporating them into standard fencing.

"Diversity of species is good insurance against devastation by pests, including insects, disease and mammalian," said Barbara Bates, a horticulturist with the Kane County office of University of Illinois Extension.

"Multi-purposing plants" also give you more bang from your landscaping buck and labor, she said. "There are many fruiting shrubs and dwarf trees that will provide food for family, friends and wildlife. Those that have displays of bloom, fragrance and fall color can add a seasonal dimension of change to your landscape."

Hedges are used primarily for creating property borders, establishing visual screens and directing traffic flow, Bates said.

"We are impatient and want instant gratification when we can get it," she said. "Fences are faster than hedges and serve the purposes equally well. (But) for plant people who root themselves in their garden abodes, the era of hedgerows continues."

Hedges are practical, with tree and shrub barriers tending to outlast fences, said Michael Kuhns, an extension forester with Utah State University at Logan. They also act as windbreaks and protected spaces where animals, songbirds, game birds and pollinators shelter.

"You can use these barriers, especially the taller ones, to create microclimates," Kuhns said. "Certain fruits and garden vegetables are pollinated better where the wind isn't blowing, increasing production. Fruit quality is enhanced, too, because there's less 'rub'."

If it's a wildlife hedge you're after, then stay away from high-maintenance shrubs such as formalized boxwoods or tightly groomed topiaries.

"Some things are traditionally clipped but don't have to be," said Sharon Yiesla, a horticulturist with the Lake County Unit of University of Illinois Extension. "That's especially the case with many of the flowering plants popular with pollinators. All you do when you trim is remove the flowers and follow-on food sources for birds. It's better just to leave them alone and let them go natural."

Wilmington Mite III's and Pee Wee III's continue fine play

Mite 3's

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Mite 3 team had a busy weekend, playing four games as part of the Hallenborg Memorial Tournament in Billerica.

Part of the tournament fun was player introductions, and each of the forward lines got a turn starting the game and hearing the cheers as they took the ice. Harry Serounian skated with Joseph Hartzell on the right and Chris Bernazani on the left; Anthony Cuozzo centered left wing Nolan Vigeant and right wing Matt Ardito; Matt's brother Brendan Ardito worked the right side for center Anthony Bowker, with Alex Fitzler on the left wing.

Max Churchill was in goal for each game, with defense pairs of Garrett Alberti, James LeFave, Aidan Elkins, and Riley Fitzgerald.

The opening game Thursday afternoon matched the Wildcats against a tough Woburn team that has been a challenge all season long. Woburn took the first period lead, but after a scoreless second period, Wilmington surged. Matt Ardito scored on the power play, with a second effort on his own rebound.

The day's third group of forwards showed crisp passing skills as Chris Bernazani scored the go-ahead goal with assists going to Hartzell and Serounian. Bernazani extended the lead, assisted this time by Alberti and Hartzell. A Woburn goal with only 20 seconds remaining wasn't enough, and the Cats finally bested their Valley League rivals.

The Saturday morning faceoff against the Burlington Red Devils took on a life of its own as Burlington rode to victory with a five goal performance from their starting center. Wilmington's Anthony Bowker scored on a first period power play, and Anthony Cuozzo scored late in the third, but it wasn't enough to overcome a dominant game by Burlington's star.

Sunday morning brought a rematch against Burlington, and the Wildcats adjusted their game to keep the match close.

The first period alone had enough action for an entire game. Nolan Vigeant scored first, 90 seconds into the game. After Burlington tied it, Vigeant scored his second goal of the period to grab the lead again.

Just 30 seconds later, opposite wing Matt Ardito added Wilmington's third goal. Burlington narrowed the gap, but Nolan completed the hat trick with just under two minutes remaining in the period. Burlington scratched their way back through the second period, eventually taking the lead in the final minute.

The Wildcats couldn't break through to even it up, but the disciplined effort kept the game tight and exciting to the final buzzer.

In the final game on Sunday afternoon, the rematch against Woburn found the Wildcats a step or two slower after the emotional morning game. Wilmington had enough hustle to earn a power play when Joseph Hartzell was tripped up while rushing into the offensive zone, but couldn't score on the man advantage.

Woburn took the win to even up for the Thursday game.

The Wilmington Youth Hockey Association Mite 3 team skated at Merrimack College Saturday morning in a Valley League match with division leader Marblehead.

Anthony Cuozzo started in goal, with a defense pairing of Garrett Alberti and James LeFave. Riley Fitzgerald took the face off flanked by wings Matthew Ardito and Nolan Vigeant.

Marblehead took an early lead with a goal at the two minute mark, but that was all they could manage until late in the game. Joseph Hartzell and Aidan Elkins were the second blue line pair, and strong teamwork held Marblehead at bay while the Wildcat offense got fired up.

Halfway through the second period, Wilmington tied the score when Riley Fitzgerald grabbed a loose puck in the offensive zone faceoff circle and slipped a shot past the Marblehead goalie.

Chris Bernazani, Brendan Ardito, Harry Serounian, Alex Fitzler, and Max Churchill kept up the forward attack, and with three minutes left in the middle frame, Anthony Bowker gave Wilmington the lead with a goal from the slot.

Marblehead responded with the kind of effort that has put them at the top of the division standings, and scored two third period goals to rally for a 3-2 win.

The Wildcats had several tough matches with Marblehead throughout the season, and have shown they can skate with anyone regardless of the won/loss records. With only one game remaining before the league playoffs, a little luck to go with the Wilmington boys effort could lead to some surprises as the brackets unfold.

For information on registration for next season and tryout schedules, go to www.wilmingtonyouthhockey.org.

Pee Wee III's

The Wilmington Wildcats PeeWee 3 team locked up first place in the Valley League regular season this past weekend. First to bow before the mighty Wildcats was the hard skating Tanners from Woburn. This was a goalie showdown, as both netminders were at the top of their game.

Wilmington forward lines of Donovan Ryan, surrounded by Jack Kilday and Pat Dunfey, along with Dougie Millar centering Mitch Harris and Brendan McGaffigan, pressured the Tanner defense. At the other end, Wildcat Wildman, Christiaan Medugno stood on his head to turn away every shot on net.

The defense of Alex Popa, Hanover Vale, Matt Gagnon, Spencer Maffei, Bret Malone, Sean Higgins and Andrew Murray did a great job of clearing the zone in front of Christiaan. Jonathan Perella crashed the Woburn net with his wingers, Matt Sutton and Alex Ripianzi. Coach Joe Higgins' Wildcats finally got on the board at 8:31 of the third period, when Hanover Vale nailed a Jack Kilday rebound. Donovan Ryan sealed the victory when he took a Pat Dunfey pass and went top shelf with it. Medugno got credit for pitching his second shutout in seven days with this 2-0 win.

Next up were their next door neighbors from Tewksbury. After turning back several shots, Redmen goalie Tim Sullivan got caught when Alex Popa slid in a Spencer Maffei rebound, when Sully was pinned to the far side post. Popa struck again when he came in thru the Tewksbury defense and deked Timmy at 2:03.

At 8:12 of the second stanza, Matt Sutton pulled a sleek wrap-around to make it 3-0. Wilmington went up 4-0 when Pat Dunfey did a drop back pass to Popa at the point. Awesome Alex let a wicked wrist shot go that Sullivan was screened from seeing, nailing down his first hattrick of the season. The spunky Redmen spoiled Christiaan's bid for a third straight shutout when Ben Hogan finished off a play from Tim Morris at 2:30 of the second.

After a penalty filled first two periods, both teams settled down and played some great two way hockey for the third period. Sullivan and Medugno put on a goaltending clinic at both ends of the ice. Neither offense could crack these two, as they both denied all shots taken on them. The final score was Wilmington 4- Tewksbury 1.

Single game tickets now on sale for 2010 Lowell Spinners Baseball games

After rain fell during each of the Lowell Spinners first 12 home games of the 2009 season, it seemed only fitting that it was again raining Tuesday, March 30 as tickets for the Class-A affiliate of the Boston Red Sox announced single game tickets were now on sale for the 2010 Spinners season.

The two-time defending Stedler Division Champion Spinners begin their quest for a third consecutive division title June 18, when they open the season in Burlington, Vermont, before returning to Lowell to kick off their 15th season of baseball in Lowell Monday, June 21 against the Tri-City ValleyCats.

The Spinners Box Office is open Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. for both phone and walk-up orders, while online tickets can be purchased at anytime at LowellSpinners.com.

Ticket Prices for the 2010 season remain the most affordable family entertainment in New England: Premium Box seats are $10, Box seats are $9, Reserved seats are $6 and Standing Room tickets (only available once each event sells out) are $5.

The 2010 Spinners schedule features a host of weekend games, highlighted by five Friday nights, seven Saturdays and seven Sundays. While kids have had the opportunity to run the bases in Sunday's in the past, as part of the 2010 Spinnertainment schedule the Spinners are allowing children to run the bases after every game this season.

Mass Bike Tour

The fourth annual Mass BikePike Tour, a bicycle tour in Massachusetts, is now accepting registrations for this four-day event taking place August 5-8th, 2010. The bike tour will begin and end in Amherst, with daily riding options ranging from 30 to 65 miles.

Overnight stops will feature great places to camp and hardy meals featuring fresh local products. People looking for an alternative to camping can take advantage of the indoor camping, comfort camping with your tent and air mattress awaiting you at each stopover or they can stay close by at local inns or B&Bs

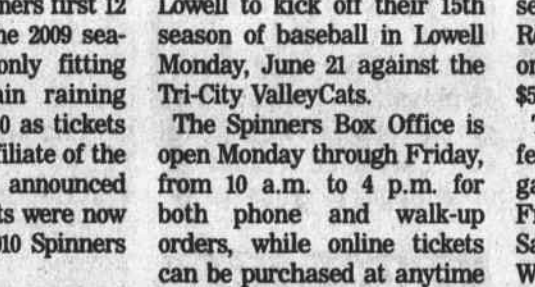

Registered riders will receive maps, route descriptions, lists of local attractions along the route, access to snack stops, SAG support, a commemorative T-shirt, and the camaraderie of friendly folks having a good time. And this year, we are offering Mass BikePike Tour bike jerseys.

Proceeds from the event will benefit MassBike, the statewide bicycle advocacy group.

For more information and registration details, visit the web site at www.MassBikePike.org or call Bruce Lederer, Tour Director at 617-710-1832.

Progress on 93/95 Interchange slows to a crawl

Project, years in the making shows little sign of moving forward

By PAUL FEELY

Long off the radar of local communities, the topic of MassHighway's proposed Route 95/93 Interchange reconstruction project has begun to creep back into public discussion in recent months, with governing bodies in both Reading and Woburn receiving updates on the status of the project.

As such a project, if it were to eventually move forward, would have large impacts on these two Middlesex East communities (as well as those that surround them), this week Middlesex East presents a refresher course on the years-long discussion and potential impact the project could have on the region.

The Reading Board of Selectmen received an update from Selectman Richard Schubert last month concerning the until-now dormant Route 93/95 Interchange project, stating that while a firm has been chosen as a consultant for the next few phases of work, a contract with that firm has yet to be hammered out (sides have been working on it since the summer of 2009).

In his presentation, Schubert noted that MassHighway is now known as the Mass. Department of Transportation. Staffing in the department has been reduced and the money is not there for many projects that had been tossed about in previous years.

In the spring of 2009, the Request For Proposals (RFP) process to select a consultant to take the project to the environmental review process began, and the firm of Fay, Spofford and Thorndike was selected.

"There is still no contract with them," said Schubert.

He went on to report that the state is trying to combine the environmental process with the design process. Aerial photographs of the area were taken last spring, and officials are currently looking at wetlands delineation near the site and looking at adding a lane on Route 128 to relieve congestion where it meets up with Route 93.

"They will start with the Task Force recommendations and will hold public hearings," said Schubert. "The timeframe is uncertain and funding is another process - this project will go up against all other projects."

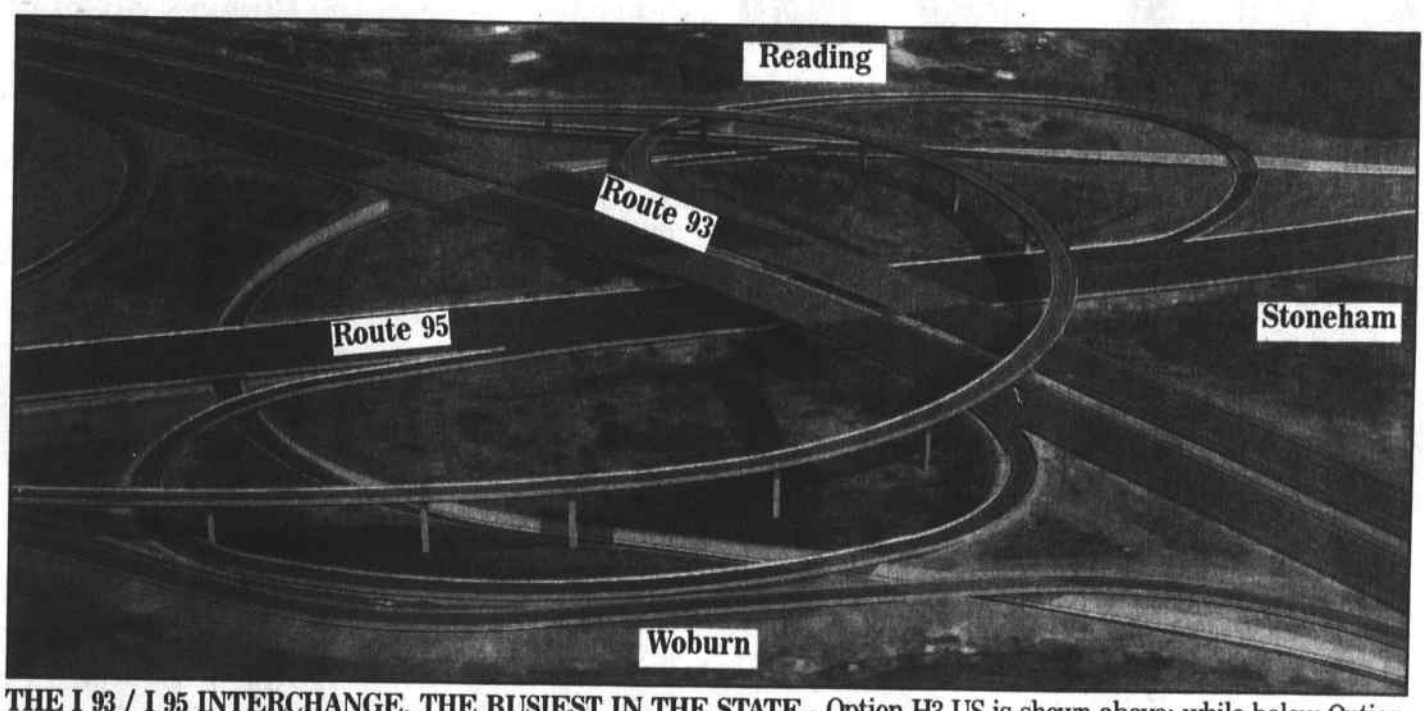

When Fay, Spofford and Thorndike were originally selected, design work had been expected to begin by the fall of 2009, with a final design expected to be completed by the fall of 2014 and construction anticipated to begin in the spring of 2015, according to an email. But that timetable is now uncertain.

Over the summer of 2007, the final report summing up the many years of work by the I-93/I-95 Interchange Transportation Study Task Force was published and distributed to Task Force members and local officials in the four communities that will be most closely affected by any changes being proposed.

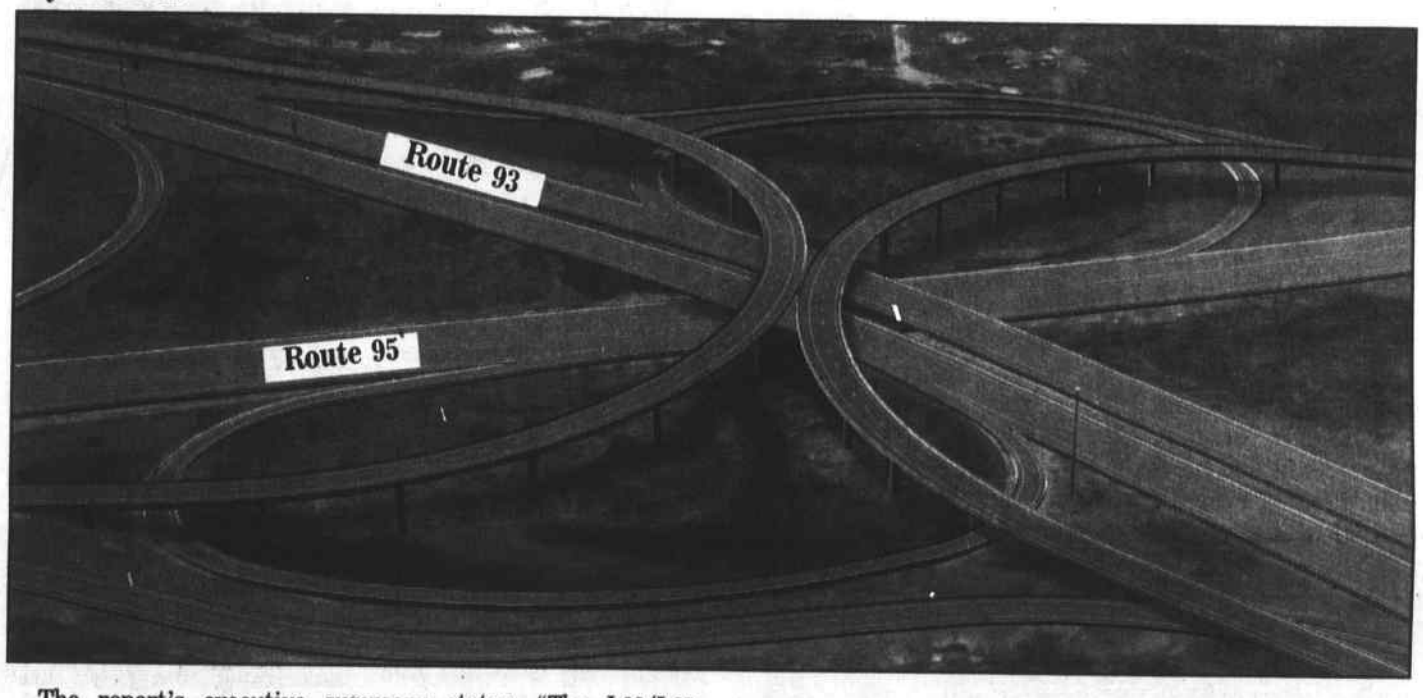

The Environmental Impact Report process allowed for more public input on the proposals being made in the Task Force report. During this process a citizens' advisory committee would be formed and public hearings would be held.

In a letter accompanying the Task Force Report, Frey stated, "The package of recommendations presented in this report reflects the valuable - and substantial - input of the Task Force members. The ITF (Interchange Task Force) worked closely with the study team in a cooperative and collaborative fashion to develop solutions that improve traffic and safety, maintain local access, avoid property takings and minimize community impacts."

The 100 page (plus six page executive summary) Task Force report summarizes most of the work that went into the final recommendations being made for study during the MEPA process. It includes the many components of road design that were looked at before the final two plans were accepted for recommendation. Also included are 10 recommendations that were not put into design form but deal with noise and other environmental pollution problems.

THE I 93 / I 95 INTERCHANGE, THE BUSIEST IN THE STATE - Option H3 US is shown above; while below Option H3 OS is shown. These two options are expected to be the main focus of scrutiny as the interchange project moves forward. Residents in Reading, Woburn and Stoneham are expected to have a lot to say about the proposed underpass and overpass options. Due to the lousy economy and Massachusetts' financial difficulty, few expect the project to advance anytime soon.

The report's executive summary states, "The I-93/I-95 Interchange is a major part of the regional highway system and a key to the economy of the Commonwealth. Severe congestion and safety problems exist at the interchange, due mainly to its very short weaving distances and other substantial geometry. The interchange carries more traffic than any other in New England (over 375,000) vehicles per day), and projected increases in future traffic would make the problems even worse at the 'bottleneck'-congested location.

"This location has the highest crash rate (accidents per million vehicles) of any similar interchange in Massachusetts, with many crash clusters in the interchange coinciding with the geometric deficiencies. Furthermore, its close proximity to other interchanges (especially Washington Street on I-95/Route 128) compounds the problems and necessitates inclusion of some adjacent interchanges as part of the solution."

Over its close to four year existence, the Task Force studied the Interchange area from Montvale Avenue and I-93 (at the Woburn/Stoneham line) to the Route 62 interchange in Wilmington and from Route 129 (at the Reading/Wakefield line) on Route 128 to Route 38 in Woburn.

The report includes the following 10 recommendations:

4.1 HIGHWAYS

Recommendation 1:

The alternatives to be advanced for environmental study should both include split Washington Street ramps and a northbound Route 128 connector to I-93.

Recommendation 2:

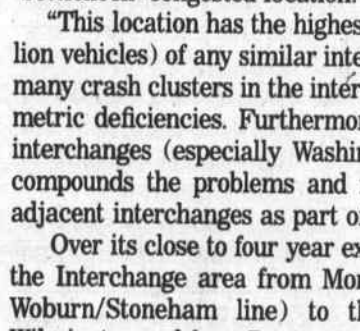

Alternatives H3-OS and H3-US should be given equal scrutiny to explore construction sequences, refine costs, and establish comparative noise, visual, and wetland impacts in detail. The appropriate place to answer these remaining questions and select a final highway alternative is in the environmental study which must follow the planning study.

Recommendation 3:

93/95 to S-4

"How to Train Your Dragon" a 3D heart warmer

"HOW TO TRAIN YOUR DRAGON" is an animated adaptation of a children's book. This action comedy tells the story of a Viking teenager who doesn't fit in with his tribe's tradition of dragon slayers. The movie's a feast for the eyes and the heart.

"HOW TO TRAIN YOUR DRAGON"
GRADE: ***

The latest 3D movie for kids, 'How to Train Your Dragon', is not only a feast for the eyes, but also one for the heart.

The creative team behind this animated adaptation of a popular children's book of the same name has pulled off a film that not only will keep the kids entertained, but passes along a message to both them and the adults that accompany them to the theater.

Written and directed by Chris Sanders and Dean DeBlois, "How to Train Your Dragon" starts out as a likeable, familiar animated kid's tale. It's set on the Viking-ruled Island of Berk, which is periodically besieged by high-flying and, in some cases, fire-breathing dragons.

Hiccup's world is turned upside down when he encounters a dragon that challenges he and his fellow Vikings to see the world from an entirely different point of view.

Hiccup (voiced by Jay Baruchel) is the scrawny, smart teenage son of brawny, heroic village chieftain Stoick the Vast (voiced by Gerard Butler). The teenager, though he tries to succeed at Dragon Training school, doesn't fit in with his Viking classmates, embarrassing his father, (though dad still seems very proud of his son).

Add to that the fact that the girl of his dreams doesn't know he exists (and is more of a dragon slayer than he could ever dream to be) and you have the basic outline of an age-old story.

Hiccup's world view is tested when he brings down an elusive breed of dragon, the Night Fury. When he can't bring himself to finish off the wounded dragon, he names it Toothless and nurses it back into flight - forcing him to rethink the dragons' place in his world.

This is when the story really takes off, so to speak, as a powerful message about learning to live with each other, despite our differences, and nature itself is brought to life thanks to stunning visuals. The flying and climactic battle sequences can truly be fully appreciated only in the 3-D format.

The voice cast is excellent, with Butler and Baruchel leading the way.

"REPO MEN"
GRADE: **

What sounds like an interesting premise for a movie, given last weekend's health care vote, gets lost amid the blood and gore in 'Repo Men'.

In this futuristic action-thriller, humans have extended and improved their lives through highly sophisticated and expensive mechanical organs created by a company called The Union. The dark side of these medical breakthroughs is that if you don't pay your bill, The Union sends its highly skilled repo men to take back its property - with no concern for your comfort or survival.

Jude Law is Remy, one of the best repo men in the business. When he suffers a cardiac failure on the job, he awakens to find himself fitted with the company's top-of-the-line heart-replacement - a procedure he has almost no shot of paying for on his salary. Unexpectedly, when he awakens post-surgery he realizes that not only is his heart not his, but its no longer in his job either.

When he can't make the payments, The Union sends its toughest enforcer, Remy's former partner Jake (Forest Whitaker), to track him down.

When the hunter becomes the hunted, Remy joins Beth (Alice Braga), another debtor who teaches him how to vanish from the system. And as he and Jake begin a game of chase, one man will become a hero for thousands on the run.

The setting for the movie is interesting - a dark future straight out of 'Blade Runner', where the world-wide conglomerate The Union profits off people with fatal illnesses.

They'll set you up on a payment plan, but the only way they make money is when you fall behind on your payments, and the sky-high interest rates kick in.

Think the credit card business model rolled into health care, and its a scary vision of the future of the medical business in the world.

In an era of health care debate and new credit card regulations it's a timely premise, but Miguel Sapochnik, in his first feature film, quickly loses his hold on the basic premise of the film, and instead opts to fill time with an overabundance of blood and gore, as well as themes and scenes borrowed from movies like 'Logan's Run' and 'Blade Runner'.

Law seems to be sleep-walking through the part, after probably realizing early on in production this one was headed to an early DVD release, though Whitaker at times seems to relish his role.

"GREEN ZONE"
GRADE: **

Matt Damon and director Paul Greengrass (The Bourne Supremacy, The Bourne Ultimatum, United 93) re-team for their latest electrifying thriller in Green Zone, a film set in the early days of the Iraqi War, when few on the ground could be trusted and trouble seemingly lurked around every corner.

During the U.S.-led occupation of Baghdad in 2003, Chief Warrant Officer Roy Miller (Damon) and his team of Army inspectors are dispatched to find weapons of mass destruction believed to be stockpiled in the Iraqi desert. Rushing from one booby-trapped and treacherous site to the next, the men search for deadly chemical agents but stumble instead upon an elaborate cover-up that clouds the true purpose of their mission.

Tangled in webs spun by operatives on opposite sides of the political aisle, Miller must hunt through covert and faulty intelligence on foreign soil for answers that will either clear a dictatorial regime or escalate a war in an unstable region.

A lot of "Green Zone" will be familiar to fans of Damon and Greengrass' "Bourne" fans. The story oves along at a very fast pace, there's a mystery that needs to be solved, and director Greengrass' utilizes his signature hand-held camera frequently, piecing scenes together using rapid-fire editing techniques.

What makes "Green Zone" more interesting than the average action film is its explanation for the invasion of Iraq in 2003. The story puts forth the premise that the invasion was based not just on bad intelligence but on deliberately manufactured intelligence.

Greg Kinnear is good as a despicable villain, and Damon is his usual self, a charismatic everyman with the tools to get the job done.

READING ROTARY 2010 AUCTION APRIL 10

The Reading Rotary Club will hold its 11th annual Spring Auction on Saturday evening April 10th and this year it will be held at the Austin Prep Field House off Willow St. on the left as you go into the school.

Always a huge success, there will be close to 100 items available in both a "silent" and a "live" format.

Probably the two funniest men in Reading, Steve Chuha and John Douglass will act as auctioneers and if you haven't seen them, you've missed an hilarious act. They have fun and they are funny; this is the only stand-up performance they give all year.

The general public is invited to attend with the silent auction starting at 6:00 pm. There will be a tremendous amount of food served throughout the evening. There will also be a cash bar and a number of raffle prizes.

Tickets for the event are available at the Burbank YMCA, Davis, Clark & Latham Insurance and the Reading Chronicle or call Don Washburn at 781-246-1075 as well as from Reading Rotary members.

This year the topic for the event is "hats", big ones, small ones, crazy ones. It's you choice or don't wear one at all. Prizes will be awarded.

The cost is $20.00 ($15. prior to the event) and you don't have to bid on any item if you so choose. Or bid on as many as you want, there are lots of great deals on both small and large items.There's something for everyone. It is just a fun filled evening with a ton of laughs and lots of great bid items.

Come to a rehearsal any Monday evening at 7 p.m. in St. Camillus Church Hall, 1175 Concord Turnpike (directly off Rte 2, exit 57) in Arlington. Call 617-735-9254 or 978-287-4445 with questions. www.libertybellechorus.org.

STONEHAM HISTORICAL SOCIETY MEETING

The Stoneham Historical Society is always pleased to enlighten, educate and entertain people about the rich historical legacy of its town and the supply of stories is endless. The presentation for this month's meeting will be no exception.

The general public is invited to visit the Historical Society Museum and Meeting Hall on Thursday, April 8. Enjoy the exhibits and fellowship beginning at 7:15. There will be a short business meeting at 7:45 followed by the program.

Curator, Mary Marchant has a gread deal of extraordinary information, photos and memorabilia to share with guests. Who knows when the current Post Office was built? Hint -there is a cornerstone somewhere. What famous sculptor's work graces a wall inside the current building under the auspices of the Treasury Department's Section of Painting and Sculpture? From 1934-1943 "art was placed in Post offices and intended to help boost the morale of people suffering the effects of the Great Depression."

The Stoneham Historical Society Meeting Hall and Museum are located at 36 William Street (across from the historic brick school building.) The HS is a non-profit organization dedicated to "Pride in our past; faith in our future" since 1922.

Lecture April 1

April Fools and Will Shakespeare

The Friends of the Lynnfield Library, in collaboration with the Lynnfield Historical Society will present an unusual and special lecture at 7 p.m. in the 1714 Meeting House, on Thursday, April 1. The title is "April's Fool and Will Shakespeare" by Doug Steward, lecturer and author.

Late in the 18th century a bright lad in London not only forged Will Shakespeare's hand but proceeded to write a creditable play in the great bard's style. As one can imagine this 'lost Shakespearian' work wass 'discovered'. Much excitement about this find swept through the country. But an equal and opposite amount of excitement arose when the hoax was uncovered. This is an intrguing story which Ipswich author Doug Stewart has detailed in a book scheduled for publication on the first of April (a most appropriate date.)

"The Boy Who Would Be Shakespeare, A Tale of Forgery and Folly." This is the true story of a 19 year old clerk named William-Henry Ireland, who almost pulled off the greatest literary hoax of all time, and it will be the substance of Doug's talk at 7 p.m. Regardless of whether you are a Shakespeare scholar, or a conspiracy buff, or one who simply delights in the comeuppance of 'intellectuals.' this is a lecture not to be missed.

The public is invited. Light refreshments will be served.

Talk on history of Parker Forest April 7

Bob Anderson will give a talk, "Discover a Hidden Gem, Right Next Door: A History of the Harold Parker Forest," on Thursday, April 8 at 7 p.m. at the Flint Memorial Library, 147 Park Street, North Reading.

Bob Anderson, park interpreter, will speak about the history and offerings of this delightful neighboring resource. All who hike, bicycle, canoe, or picnic and enjoy the flora and fanna of this 3,000 acre wonderland are encouraged to attend.

It is free and open to the public. Sponsored by the Friends of the Flint Memorial Library and the North Reading Antiquarian and Historical Society. For further information please call 978-664-4942.

LINDEN TREE HOSTS BARTLEY AND MIRAGLIA

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse will have an acoustic music concert on Saturday, April 10. There will be return performances from Geoff Bartley and Danielle Miraglia. Great guitar playing along with thoughtful lyrics and the personalitites of these two talents make it a must see evening.

Bartley is a prize-winning acoustic guitarist and a nationally respected singer-songwriter. His songs are grounded in traditional folk music, roots blues and jazz, and have been performed and recorded by other artists in the U.S., Canada and Ireland.

Miraglia's country, folk, blues sound descends in large part from Mississippi John Hurt, and she is a worthy carrier of that guitar picking tradition. Her voice, reminiscent of Bonnie Raitt's, is strong but vulnerable, feminine but never precious, with a gut wrenching catch to it. The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 326 Main Street Wakefield.Call. 781-246-2836 for more information or visit www.LindenTreeCoffeehouse.org.

TEWKSBURY EXTRAORDINAIRE

"The upcoming film, 'Extraordinary Measures,' details the exploits of a doctor, played by Harrison Ford, and the man who funds him, played by Brendan Fraser, in the hunt to find a treatment for Pompe disease, a condition which affects his character's children," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"One local resident, however, is also battling against Pompe disease. Johnny Kenney, age 9, of Tewksbury, was suffering from fatigue on exertion and from fainting and other difficulties when exercising. After undergoing blood tests, he was diagnosed last April with Pompe disease at the muscular dystrophy clinic at Massachusetts General Hospital.

"Pompe disease is characterized by a deficiency in an enzyme that breaks down glycogen, which results in glycogen building up in muscles and tissues causing weakness and fatigue.

"Since October, Johnny has been receiving infusions of Myozyme, a treatment created by Genzyme, a Framingham-based company, every two weeks. The treatment has resulted in a drastic change in Johnny's life.

"'The difference in him is phenomenal,' said Renee Kenney, Johnny's grandmother, who has raised him. While Myozyme is not a cure, she said, 'his ability to run and play has increased.'

"Kenney also added, 'Myozyme is amazing. It has changed my grandson emotionally.' Without Myozyme, according to Kenney, Johnny could have been bound for a wheelchair by age twelve....

"Johnny himself likes to give back to the community. He is the junior ambassador for the Tewksbury Fire Department for the MDA, and attends all of the events. Johnny actively participates in fundraising efforts. The Kenneys are also thankful for the efforts of the fire department to provide support and assistance. 'Those firemen go out of their way,' Renee said...."

MAKING TRACKS IN WAKEFIELD

"Scott Robertson, the President of the Wakefield Track Boosters Association, came before the Wakefield School Committee pleading for help in repairing the outdoor track," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"He advised that the Middlesex League officials have determined that the track is unsafe and Wakefield will not be allowed to hold any home track meets. As a result the athletes will have to be bused to the opponents track or a neutral track to hold the competitions.

"Robertson stressed that the cost of the transportation was a waste of money and something should be done by the Town. The coaches and track members attended the meeting as well as Athletic Director Micheal Boyages. It is estimated that the minimum to make repairs would be between $30,000 and $70,000 while a complete update with new track, football field and scoreboard would be approximately 1.4 million.

"Robertson argued that it was unfair to have the track members pay user fees and not be able to have a safe facility. He complained 'It is not fair for our competitors to never have a home team rooting for them.' The Boosters provide a great deal of support to all of the sports programs and want to help get some results to solve this problem.... The School Committee understands the problem and advised that the track was on the list of items to be funded, but with the budget shortfall it did not receive the money to do the work...."

VOLUNTEERS ALWAYS WELCOME (LYNNFIELD)

"The Lynnfield Senior Center coordinates a large staff of volunteers," notes its website.

"Over 120 dedicated volunteers donate over 1000 hours of service each month. Some offer several hours each week, while others offer several hours each year. Their talents range from teaching classes, cooking breakfast, and cleaning, to running a thrift shop, assisting visually impaired with shopping, and computer programming. There are many opportunities and anyone interested in volunteering should contact the senior center.

"All volunteers receive training and oversight by a member of the staff until they are comfortable. Volunteer Manuals can be picked up from the outreach office and all volunteers are asked to record their hours each time they volunteer.

"Each fall, the staff hosts a very special Volunteer Appreciation Luncheon to honor all volunteers who have donated over 20 hours during the year. This is our largest event of the year with more time and funds used to make this day as special as possible for our volunteers."

Movies

from S-2

Amy Ryan has a few good scenes as a reporter whose questionable pre-war reporting about WMDs greased the skids for the country to enter the conflict (think Judith Miller of the New York Times), and Khalid Abdalla is very good as an Iraq army veteran who hates his leader Saddam, and who teams up with Miller to work as a translator.

"ALICE IN WONDERLAND"
GRADE: ***

Director Tim Burton's 'Alice in Wonderland', which could have been titled 'A Return to Wonderland', is a treat for the eyes and the ears - at least, after Alice falls down the rabbit hole again.

The film starts off a bit slowly, as Burton uses up roughly the first 25 minutes to mock the more elite members of British society as being boorish. Alice's hand in marriage has been requested by a doltish young man, and she decides to flee the scene, heading for the nearby rabbit hole to hide - and away we go.

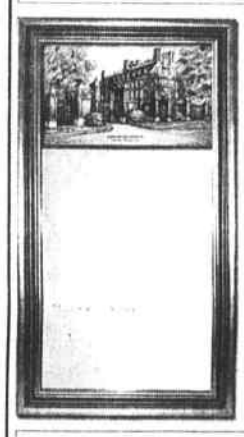

"Alice" really picks up speed once Johnny Depp's Mad Hatter is introduced on screen. The part is yet another outstanding performance in a career filled with eccentric and outlandish characters portrayed by Depp.

Anne Hathaway is good as the White Queen, but this reviwer wasn't all that impressed with Mia Wasikowska as Alice. .

The film's special effects are very impressive, especially when viewed in 3D. They aren't qute on the same level as Avatar, but there is eye candy galore to be found on screen.

"Alice in Wonderland" contains some frightening moments which might scare the younger ones, but they aren't overwhelming for kids above the age of 8.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA: What city has had two schools win NCAA Division I men's hoop championships? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•At Belmont Hill School's Winter Sports Award Assembly, TENTH GRADER DEVIN ALBERT, SON OF MR. AND MRS. DAVID ALBERT OF READING, was recognized with Independent School League (ISL) All League in Hockey.

•The Reading Lions Club Journey for Sight 5K-Road Race/ 1 Mile Walk is scheduled for Saturday, May 22, 2010 at 10:00AM. This will be our 24rd year hosting this event. All proceeds go to Massachusetts Lions Eye Research Fund, Inc.

The race begins at Burbank Ice Arena, Reading, MA

T-Shirts will be provided to the first 100 registrants. Pre-registration fee is $18.00 and $20.00 on the day of the race.•

•KEVIN TOBIN OF READING and the Middlesex Braves of the Mass. Select Hockey League will represent the State of Massachusetts in the USA Hockey Pee Wee Minor National Championship. The National Championship will be held in Reston, Virginia from April 6 to April 11 and will have all 50 states represented. The Middlesex Braves finished tied for first with a 26-2-2 record and after losing the first game of the playoffs, swept the next three games to take the championship. Kevin is a product of the outstanding Reading Youth Hockey program where he had excellent coaching by Reading residents Brian and Kevin Thomson, Paul Lawrence and Jack Burke. The right winger is always a Reading Rocket at heart but does hope that he and his Braves teammates can bring home the championship for the State of Massachusetts.

•The Merrimack men's lacrosse team built an 8-0 lead at halftime, defeating Saint Michael's 12-4 last Wednesday afternoon in the home and conference opener at Warrior Field.

The Warriors took control early, using the nation's top-ranked man-advantage to score four times in as many opportunities. Greg Melaugh (Billerica, MA) scored the game's first two goals. Corey Lunney (Little Silver, NJ) added three first-half tallies, including two in a 66-second span.

In all, five of Merrimack's first-half goals were netted by freshmen, as Nick Vazquez (Haverhill, MA) added the eighth goal with 1:35 left in the second.

"It was a good bounce back win," said head coach Mike Morgan. "We had a strong start, and our young guys played very well. Cory was solid in goal, and his defense was effective in front of him. It's a good way to open conference play."

Merrimack outshot the Purple Knights 28-9 overall and 18-7 on goal in the first 30 minutes. They also forced four turnovers over the visitors' 10 clear opportunities.

The Warriors emptied their bench in the second half, as Matt Marini (Trumbull, CT) and Joe Lamagna (Andover, MA) added late fourth-quarter goals. Lunney finished with four goals, giving the freshman 17 goals and 22 points in four games.

CORY SPINALE (WAKEFIELD, MA) recorded 10 saves in the win in 45 minutes of action, improving to 3-1 on the season.

Merrimack finished 6-for-8 overall on the man-advantage and killed off all five of the Purple Knights' chances.

•Need some help with this week's question? Love your brother.

•Ending their spring break schedule in Florida , the Merrimack College softball team took down Nyack, 11-1, before falling to Queens (3-2) in eight innings and Molloy, 9-5.

Beginning Northeast-10 Conference play this week against Saint Michael's College at home in a doubleheader at 3:30pm, the Warriors bring a 4-7 record back from a wet week in Florida, as three contests were rained out on the week.

In game one against Nyack, Merrimack senior Casey Conetta (Darien, CT) hit her first home run of the year, while classmates Atlee Cahill (Gloucester, MA) and JILL BRADFORD (STONEHAM, MA) combined for 7-of-8 from behind the plate. Cahill went a perfect 4-of-4 in game one to help the Warriors earn a mercy rule-win in the morning.

In game two, Cahill pitched 7 1/3 innings, allowing just one earned run, but Merrimack fell 3-2 after Queens (NY) College notched eight hits after the game went into extra innings.

Conetta would knock a pair of hits to become responsible for two Warrior runs, while Kristen Lemay (Shrewsbury, MA) went 4-of-4 and scored both runs for Merrimack. Despite 11 hits as a team, Merrimack committed two errors which made the difference in the end.

In the nightcap versus Molloy College, Merrimack fell 9-5, but was not without offensive firepower. Junior Kara Melillo (North Andover, MA) hit her first career home run and sophomore Monique Gosselin (Lawrence, MA) jacked a three-run homer to take a 4-3 lead in the first inning. Conetta also recorded another two hits to contribute offensively.

Sophomore Alex Gallant (Salem, NH) got the start in game three, but allowed eight hits and seven runs to drop to 1-3 on the year. Freshman Kelli Jo Deardorff (Bedford, MA) pitched three innings of relief and allowed one run on three hits.

•The River Hawks' (12-7, 1-2 NE-10) bats came alive last Wednesday in an 11-7 win over the Bentley Falcons (8-12, 3-2 NE-10) at DeFelice Field. Senior JT Leary (Newburyport, MA) went four-for-five at the plate with five RBI.

UMass Lowell jumped out to an early lead in the contest, plating eight runs in the first four innings. The River Hawks' scoring outburst started in the first inning with a solo home run from Luke Wallace (Yorktown Heights, NY) and an RBI single from Leary. Wallace's round-tripper was his career-best fifth of the season.

In the third, Leary connected on another RBI single and Peter Onorato (Clarence Center, NY) joined with a RBI fielder's choice. Sean Burns (Colchester, VT) ripped a two run double in the fourth, followed by a third RBI single from Leary. TAYLOR VON KRIEGENBERGH (STONEHAM, MA) capped the four-run fourth with an RBI fielder's choice.

Leary struck again in the sixth inning with a two run single followed by an RBI hit from shortstop Jordan Silva (Groveland, MA). All 11 UMass Lowell runs came in the first six innings.

Senior right-hander Dan White (Southboro, MA) turned in a solid performance on the mound, limiting the Falcons to three runs over six innings. White improved to 2-0 on the season while striking out six batters.

White was relieved by Ryan Stoller (Milton, MA) who struggled through a third of an inning and surrendered four runs, three earned. MATT MONICO (TEWKSBURY) closed the game down with two and two-thirds innings of shutout baseball to wrap up the victory.

93/95 From S-1

During the environmental phase, further engineering should be done to explore variations that can improve the two alternatives and reduce their impact.

Recommendation 4.

Extension of the fourth lane on Route 128 northbound to Exit 40 (Route 129), and on Route 128 southbound from Exit 38 (Route 28) should be implemented as an interim improvement, along with an on-ramp from Cedar Street in Woburn to southbound I-93. Where warranted by MassHighway noise abatement guidelines, noise barriers should be constructed as part of the interim improvements, adjacent to the added lanes on Route 128 and also at other locations around the I-93/I-95 Interchange where barrier relocation would not be required during con-struction of full improvements.

Recommendation 5.

All transit and TDM improvements described in Chapter 3 should be included with the recommended highway improvements in an integrated multi-modal package of actions to be further developed and analyzed in the environmental phase.

Recommendation 6.

The highway and non-highway recommendations of the I-93/I-95 Interchange Study have been conceived, evaluated, and discussed with the Interchange Task Force as a multi-modal integrated package of improvements. Therefore, this package, including interim improvements, should be developed and evaluated in a single environmental study, resulting in an Environmental Impact Report and Statement that addresses the entire package.

Recommendation 7.

The environmental studies should be based on a continued open process of public involvement and should be prepared in coordination with an ongoing Citizens Advisory Committee incorporating the members and interests of the I-93/ I-95 Interchange Task Force and the affected communities. Minimizing takings, noise, and visual impacts are essential to maintaining community support.

Recommendation 8.

A study of long-range ITS improvements should be undertaken to address information systems, ramp metering, and variable speed limits as potential techniques to better manage congestion on the region's expressways.

Recommendation 9.

Because of the scale and complexity of the problem and because of its importance to long range mobility, energy conservation, and greenhouse gas reduction, a long-range regional HOV study is recommended.

Recommendation 10.

The I-93/I-/95 Interchange Transportation Study recommends incorporating regional and local land use planning efforts (such as MAPC's MetroFuture initiative) into transportation project planning, and encourages the full participation of Reading, Stoneham, Woburn, other local communities, and regional organizations in the planning process.

According to the Environmental Notification Form, the project's stormwater impacts are as follows:

The project would add a fourth northbound lane on Route 128 from the Interchange with I-93 (Exit 37) to Route 129 (Exit 40); and an auxiliary southbound lane on Route 128 from Route 28 (Exit 38) to the Mishawum Road on-ramp (Exit 36). Much of the area of the fourth lane is already paved, and bridges east of I-93 would not be altered. A parallel connector road from northbound Route 128 to the interchange and new ramps within the interchange would create new impervious area. The stormwater system for the project has not yet been designed, but would include elements to meet DEP stormwater policy regarding peak discharge rate and water quality. Based on review of the stormwater policy, it is expected that the project would be classified as a new project and would therefore meet all the applicable standards in the DEP Stormwater Policy and MassHighway's Stormwater Handbook for Highways and Bridges. Land is available within the interchange and the highway layout to provide drainage structures. With appropriate design, the project's stormwater impacts would be the same as those of the current highway and interchange.

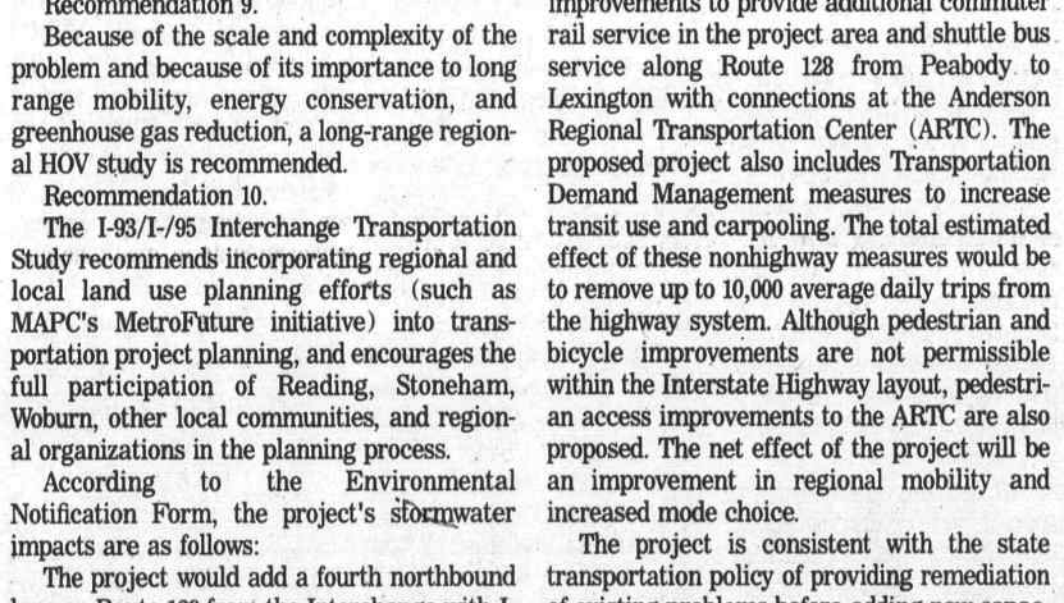

The project would alter land immediately adjacent to I-93 and I-95 as described above. Except for a triangular area of 1700 to 4700 square feet in the northeast quadrant of the interchange (depending on the alternative) and an elevated ramp above 26,000 square feet of wetland area immediately southwest of the interchange, all work would be done within the existing highway layout line.

For the proposed pedestrian bridge at Anderson RTC, the MBTA and City of Woburn would need to negotiate an agreement with an industrial/commercial property owner(s) located west of and adjacent to the rail line and in the immediate vicinity of the station for use of/access to land extending to New Boston Street. This proposal has the support of the City of Woburn and area business organizations, and it is hoped that all parties would be able to achieve a mutually beneficial arrangement. Alternately, a small amount of property (estimated less than 1 acre) would need to be acquired to provide access.

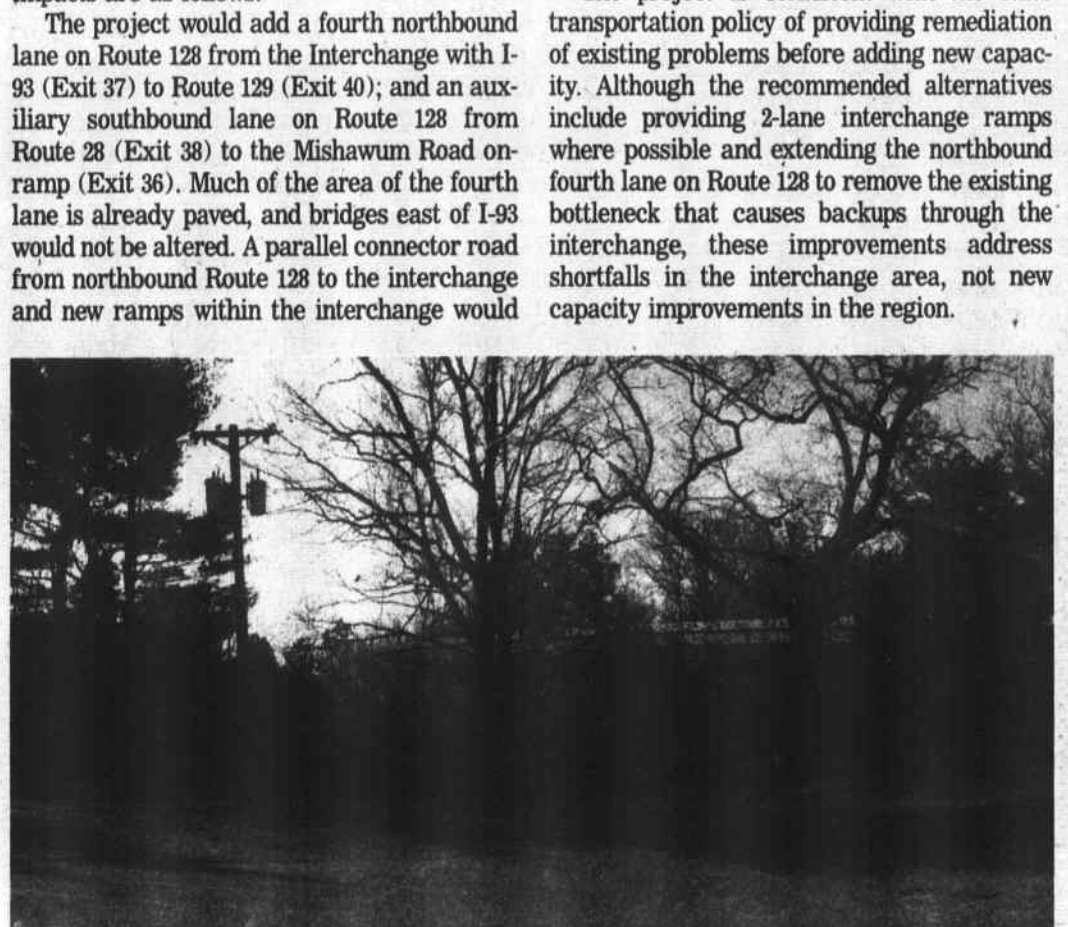

According to the ENF filing, in describing the project's consistency with other federal, state, regional, and local plans and policies related to traffic, transit, pedestrian and bicycle transportation facilities and services, the report states:

The project is consistent with the Massachusetts Long Range Transportation Plan, which cites the I-93/I-95 interchange as a needed major infrastructure improvement; a placeholder for the interchange improvements is included in the Boston Regional Transportation Plan. An integral part of the proposed project is a package of transit improvements to provide additional commuter rail service in the project area and shuttle bus service along Route 128 from Peabody to Lexington with connections at the Anderson Regional Transportation Center (ARTC). The proposed project also includes Transportation Demand Management measures to increase transit use and carpooling. The total estimated effect of these nonhighway measures would be to remove up to 10,000 average daily trips from the highway system. Although pedestrian and bicycle improvements are not permissible within the Interstate Highway layout, pedestrian access improvements to the ARTC are also proposed. The net effect of the project will be an improvement in regional mobility and increased mode choice.

The project is consistent with the state transportation policy of providing remediation of existing problems before adding new capacity. Although the recommended alternatives include providing 2-lane interchange ramps where possible and extending the northbound fourth lane on Route 128 to remove the existing bottleneck that causes backups through the interchange, these improvements address shortfalls in the interchange area, not new capacity improvements in the region.

'Heel' and pamper your feet

Millions of dollars are spent every year by women and men who want to pamper their feet. While the pedicure has evolved into a spa treatment in recent years, it really has its roots as a medical procedure designed to care for ailing feet.

Although a pedicure is a popular beauty treatment, there are still many who are reticent to put their feet in someone else's hands. Concern about sanitary procedures at a spa or embarrassment about the condition of their feet leads many individuals to seek out home treatment options that are convenient, effective and affordable. So at-home spa treatments have become popular.

Cracked, dry heels is one condition that can cause embarrassment and even pain. In many cases, this common problem is caused by dry skin, the presence of calluses and prolonged pressure on the heel, particularly for people with a job that requires a lot of standing. People with severely dry heels have been known to wear through pantyhose or socks, and may experience cracking so advanced that heels ache or bleed.

It may not be necessary to visit a spa or podiatrist to treat cracked heels. The Heeltastic(TM) soothing balm, in a convenient application stick, is the newest product for your at-home foot therapy routine. It is formulated for chronically dry and cracked skin. The balm penetrates deep into the heel with Neem and Karanja oils imported from India, as well as skin moisturizers and nutrients that promote healthy skin. Gentle enough to use several times a day, feet feel smoother and softer after just days of use. To learn more, visit www.heeltastic.com.

Those who want to take additional steps to promote foot health and an attractive appearance should consider these additional foot care tips:

* If you do have pedicures at a salon, it is a wise investment to purchase your own tools so you are ensured they are sanitized and safe.

* Wash and soak your feet daily for cleanliness and be careful to rinse off all soap, especially between toes.

* When clipping toenails, do so straight across, to prevent the formation of ingrown toenails. Do so after a bath or shower so that the nails will be soft and easier to cut.

* Wear shoes and socks that fit correctly. Otherwise you risk corns and calluses, which can be painful and unsightly. Limit the use of high heels, which put unnatural pressure on the balls of the feet.

* If you frequent a gym, locker room or public pool, do not walk around barefoot – use a pair of sandals or flip-flops. This protects your feet from bacteria or fungus that may be present on the floor.

* Regularly slough off dead skin that forms on the feet with a pumice stone, or something more convenient like the PedEgg(TM).

*Walk around the home in bare feet frequently. It stretches out the tendons and ligaments of the foot and promotes circulation.

* If you work on your feet or spend long hours standing, take frequent breaks and elevate the feet to prevent cracked heels or other foot pain.

* Enlist the help of a partner for a good foot massage every once in a while. A product as simple as mineral oil can be used as the massage lubricant.

* If you are a diabetic, foot care is essential. Regularly inspect your feet for any cuts, blisters or calluses. Consult with a podiatrist for treatment.

Eating healthier as you get older

Though even the President of the United States' wife is publicly taking America's obesity epidemic to task, more and more people in America and across the globe are trying to tackle their weight problems and eat healthier. Because kids are naturally more physically active than their adult counterparts, it can be easier for the younger crowd to get healthier.

For seniors, who no longer have rapid metabolisms, losing weight or keeping pounds off is far more difficult. Because even the most active senior is limited in what he or she can handle with respect to physical activity, a greater emphasis must be placed on eating healthy the older a person gets. Fortunately, there are many ways for seniors to eat healthier without making drastic changes to their lifestyles.

Don't Forget Fluids

Be it seniors, young adults or even kids, water is an essential part of a healthy diet. For years, the medical profession has said eight cups per day is what the average adult needs to keep his or her body working properly. Eight cups per day should help avoid dehydration, the side effects of which include dry skin, elevated heart rate, lack of energy, and weakness.

One area seniors should be extra careful regards their caffeine intake. Caffeine can make the body lose water, so seniors who still enjoy caffeinated coffee or the occasional soda should be aware that it might be costing them in other areas.

Change Your Shopping Habits

How a person shops for food can have a big impact on how healthy that person eats. For instance, don't shop when you are hungry. Doing so often leads to buying more food than you need and even buying certain foods you otherwise would not eat.

Seniors typically must live on a budget. While this can make it difficult to eat healthy, it's not impossible. Comparison shopping is one way to save money and eat healthy at the same time. Check labels for generic store brands to see if there's any difference in nutritional value. Oftentimes there is no difference, and the generic brands are significantly cheaper.

When buying fruit, buy fruit at various stages of ripeness. That way, you can eat one ripe piece of fruit today and one that will be ripe tomorrow.

Don't Forget Dairy

While many seniors struggle to digest dairy as they get older, there are ways to still get the health benefits of dairy, including stronger bones, and not struggle with digestion. When eating dairy, eat smaller amounts more times per day. Also, eat dairy products with a meal and not alone. This can help ease digestion. For cheese afficionados, eat aged cheeses like Swiss or cheddar instead of mild cheeses, which are more difficult to digest.

Did you know?
Seniors living longer

The senior population is one of the fastest-growing demographics, thus making it a very influential one. There are currently about 500 million people age 65 or older around the world.

And many seniors are living longer than ever before. Statistics project that there will be 580,605 centenarians in the United States in 2040. Also, by 2050, seniors will make up 21 percent of the population. While there is no singular reason for seniors living longer, advancements in medicine no doubt have played a major role in the average life expectancy increasing over the last several years.

According to a study from the American Cancer Society released in 2010, age-standardized cancer death rates have been decreasing since the early 1990s, a welcome development the study's author feels is a direct result of reductions in tobacco use, increased cancer screening that help detect cancer earlier and improvements in treatment for specific cancers.

Men and their health

While genetics and external factors beyond a man's control play a role in overall fitness, the top threats to men's health are largely preventable. Leading the list are heart disease, cancer and unintentional injury.

While protection against unintentional injury can be difficult beyond taking standard safety precautions, the fight against heart disease and cancer is one men can fight far in advance of diagnosis.

For example, maintaining a healthy diet and exercise routine can help keep men healthy. In addition, reducing stress or learning ways in which to cope successfully with stress can make a big difference.

Routine health visits also can identify potential health threats early on.

urally bright on all but the darkest days. French doors swing open on a den with a raised panel ceiling, and from there you can open sliders that lead into one of two screened porches.

The second porch is off the sunny eating nook at the far end of a large country kitchen. It's just right for shaded, breezy meals when the weather is too hot to stay inside. Other kitchen features include: a raised eating bar/work island, step-in pantry, built-in desk with shelves, and a convenient utility room that's also adjacent to the garage. A wide deck spans the rear and wraps around to the left.

Two huge walk-in closets provide ample storage in the Cobleskill's master suite while the luxurious bathroom boasts a dual vanity, walk-in shower and private toilet. Upstairs, two bedrooms share another bathroom.

Cobleskill mixes traditional with modern

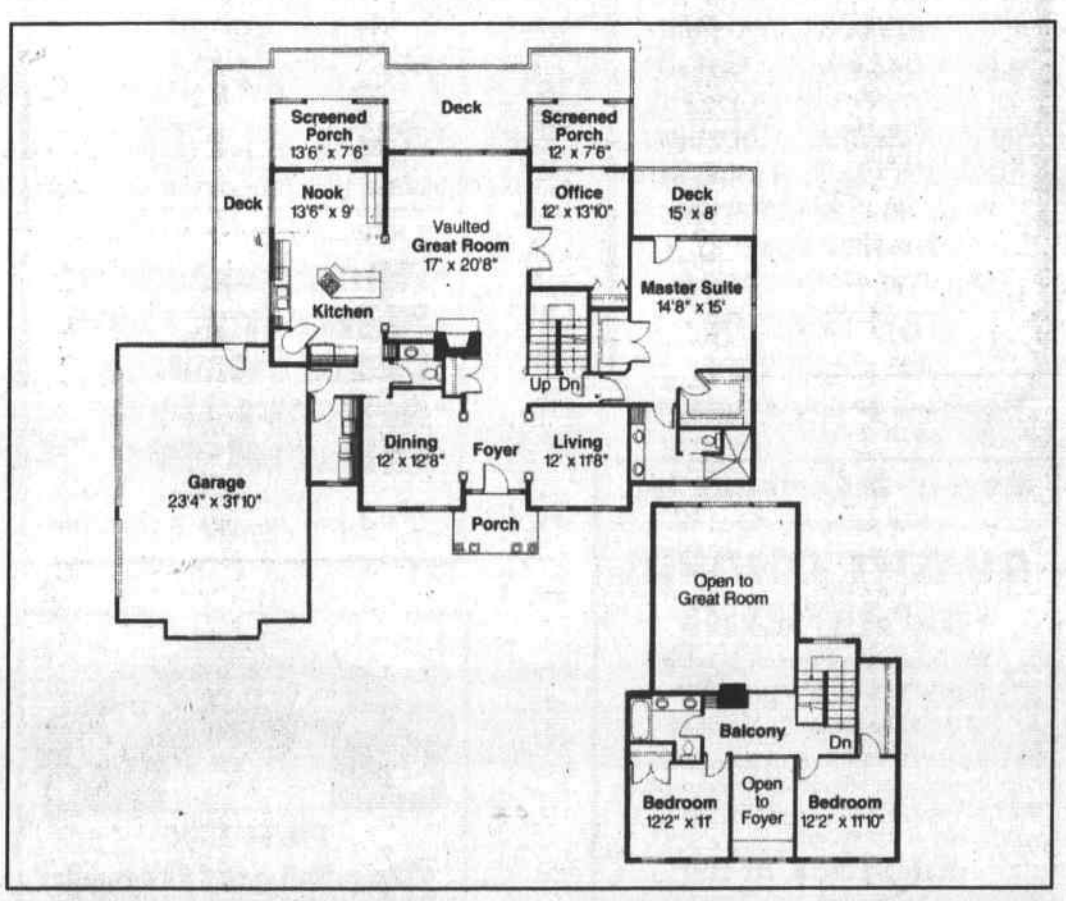

Classical columns support the colonial-style Cobleskill's stately portico. Architectural symmetry, keystone arches, shuttered windows and an entry palladian window add authentic detailing. The interior is a blend of traditional and modern.

A formal living room and dining room flank the elegant two-story foyer, their cased openings bounded by ornamental columns. Both rooms are richly windowed and the dining room has a built-in hutch. The rooms upstairs and to the rear are much more relaxed. From the second floor balcony, you can overlook the foyer and a vaulted great room which is partially open to the kitchen.

A brick fireplace serves as a warm focal point at the Cobleskill's heart. Windows fill most of the high wall to the rear, so this space is nat-
